BigBasket CEO says 'initially dismissed quick commerce' as he steps down

New Delhi, June 26 (Agency)

The Chief Executive Officer (CEO) and co-founder of the Tata Digital-backed BigBasket Hari Menon after stepping down said he initially dismissed quick commerce saying the company had to rethink its business after consumers rapidly embraced 10-minute grocery delivery. In a farewell post on LinkedIn, called the rise of quick commerce the biggest disruption the company had faced. "I've said it before and I'll say it again, I was in denial with the idea of QC. If you'd asked 100 people back then whether they wanted groceries in 10 mins... most of them would've said no. But the moment we gave it to our customers, they lapped it up," he wrote. Former Amazon executive Amit Nanda taking over the top role. However, Menon and co-founder Vipul Parekh will continue to serve on BigBasket's board.

Reflecting on the company's early years, Menon said, BigBasket was built around four operating principles including maintaining high order fill rates, ensuring on-time deliveries, keeping product availability above 95 percent and delivering strong customer satisfaction. "We had no real template for what that would take. But we knew the four things we had to get right and that nothing else mattered until we did. We saw immense success and our model working beautifully. That changed with the emergence of quick commerce. Then came the disruption roaring in... quick commerce," he said. Menon recalled that by 2014, BigBasket had established itself in Bengaluru, Mumbai and Hyderabad before expanding across the country. The company later roped in actor Shah Rukh Khan as its brand ambassador as it scaled its online grocery business.

"Today, as I hand over the baton to Amit, I genuinely could not be more excited about what comes next. He brings such sharp instincts, deep consumer understanding, and exactly the kind of energy this next phase needs," he wrote. BigBasket was founded in 2011, and pioneered online grocery delivery in India before reinventing itself for the quick commerce era. The company is now among the country's largest rapid delivery players as competition in the sector continues to intensify.

Lokatantra Senani Sangh Observes Black Day

Bhubaneswar, June 26 (Reporter)

June 26 marks one of the darkest chapters in India's history. On this day in 1975, the then Prime Minister, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, declared the Emergency, an event widely regarded as a black chapter in the nation's democratic history. To create awareness among citizens about the impact of the Emergency and to safeguard democracy in the future, the Lokatantra Senani Sangh observes June 26 every year as Black Day. The organization also aims to educate the younger generation about India's democratic history and strengthen their commitment to democratic values.

The Odisha Government also observed the occasion officially last year. Around 180 democracy fighters who were imprisoned during the Emergency were honoured with certificates and financial assistance. In addition, 72 more democracy fighters were identified and extended similar benefits. The government has also issued a notification to provide pensions to the widows of deceased democracy fighters. Due to the continuous efforts of the Lokatantra Senani Sangh, democracy fighters in 12 states are now receiving recognition and various welfare benefits. The organization appealed for continued public support to further strengthen and protect democracy in India. The event was attended by Odisha Legislative Assembly Speaker Surama Padhy as the chief guest, who praised the sacrifices of the democracy fighters. MLA Babu Singh, former Minister Amar Prasad Satpathy, Managing Editor Birupaksha Tripathy, and democracy fighters from different parts of the state were also present.
