Was an hour away from Iran attacks: Trump

Don claims Gulf negotiators requested him to refrain from attacking Iran; US acting AG in the dock for new fund

WASHINGTON

US President Donald Trump on Tuesday said he was an hour away from making a decision to restart attacks on Iran, but put it off after receiving a call from interlocutors, including Qatar and the UAE, on Tehran being "reasonable" in the peace talks.

"I was an hour away. We were all set to go... it would have been happening right now," Trump told reporters at the White House.

Trump was briefing reporters about the progress on the ballroom coming up at the East Wing of the White House, at the site as workers went about their construction job at the highly fortified structure.

"We would probably not be talking about a beautiful ballroom today. We'd be talking about that. And no, we were where I had made the decision. So they called up. They had heard I made the decision. They said, "Sir, could you give us a couple more days because we think they're being reasonable," Trump said.

The US President said the negotiators said they had made a lot of progress in talks with Iran over the last two days.

"They called over the last two days to say they made a lot of progress. Because we have them negotiating with us. And primarily, Saudi Arabia, Qatar, UAE, Kuwait, a little bit of Bahrain, and some of the others. And we have them negotiating with them. We're all working together. It's like a team," Trump said.

Trump said he's giving Iran "a limited period of time" to make a deal because we can't let them have a nuclear weapon." "There's no question in my mind that they'd use it, there's no question-and I deal with these people. They're extremely radicalised," he said. "Maybe Friday, Saturday, Sunday, something, maybe early next week. A limited period of time," he said.

There have been reports that China, which has close ties to Iran, has considered sending weapons for use in the conflict against the United States. But Trump says Chinese President Xi Jinping assured him that wasn't the case.

"He promised that he's not sending any weapons," Trump told reporters after he was asked about the reports. The leaders held two days of in-person talks last week in Beijing.

Meanwhile, acting Attorney General Todd Blanche is appearing for his first congressional testimony since taking reins at the Justice Department, as the agency faces scrutiny over its plans to create a $1.7 billion fund to pay Trump's allies who believe they were targeted politically. AP

Russia flaunts its N-forces as Ukraine steps up drone hits

MOSCOW

RUSSIA on Tuesday began massive maneuvers of its nuclear forces featuring practice launches of nuclear-capable ballistic and cruise missiles in drills that come amid surge in Ukrainian drone strikes.

The three-day exercise will involve 64,000 troops, over 200 missile launchers, more than 140 aircraft, 73 surface warships and 13 submarines, including eight armed with nuclear-tipped intercontinental ballistic missiles, the Defense Ministry said.

The maneuvers will focus on the "preparation and use of nuclear forces under the threat of aggression," the ministry said.

The drills will also practice cooperation with Belarus, a neighbor and ally that hosts Russian nuclear weapons. Russian arsenals in Belarus include its latest intermediate range nuclear-capable Oreshnik missile system.

The maneuvers come as Ukraine has sharply intensified its drone attacks against Russia, including a weekend barrage on Moscow's suburbs that killed three and damaged several buildings and industrial facilities. Russian President Vladimir Putin has repeatedly reminded the world about Moscow's nuclear arsenals after sending troops into Ukraine in February 2022 to try to deter the West from ramping up support for Kyiv.

The recent attacks have made it harder for officials in the Kremlin to cast the conflict in Ukraine — now in its fifth year — as something so distant that it doesn't affect the daily routines of Russian civilians.

The exercise unfolded as Putin on Tuesday is starting a two-day visit to China.

Last week, he praised a successful test launch of the new Sarmat ICBM, which is set to replace aging Soviet-built nuclear missiles.

In 2024, Putin adopted a revised nuclear doctrine, noting that any nation's conventional attack on Russia that is supported by a nuclear power will be considered a joint attack on his country.

That threat was clearly aimed at discouraging the West from allowing Ukraine to strike Russia with longer-range weapons and appears to significantly lower the threshold for the possible use of Russia's nuclear arsenal. AP

UAE says drones that hit Barakah nuclear power plant came from Iraq

DUBAI

UAE'S Ministry of Defence said Tuesday that during the past 48 hours, its air defence systems successfully detected and engaged 6 hostile drones trying to target civilian and vital areas in the country. The drones that targeted UAE's Barakah nuclear power plant all came from Iraq, likely signaling Iranian-backed Shiite militias launched the assault, the ministry said. There were no reported injuries or radiological release at Barakah after the attack, which Emirati officials said hit a generator on the facility's perimeter. The UAE, which has hosted air defenses and personnel from Israel, recently accused Iran of launching drone and missile attacks even after the ceasefire. Tensions have risen over the Strait of Hormuz, a vital energy waterway gripped by Iran, which is under a US naval blockade.

No group has claimed responsibility for the attack, though Iran and its proxies are being suspected. Iraqi government spokesman Bassem al-Awadi issued a statement saying that Baghdad "expresses its strong condemnation of the recent drone attacks targeting the UAE. We also emphasize the importance of effective regional and international cooperation to prevent any escalation or harm to the stability of the region," al-Awadi added. AP

UK to charge 57 people over 2017 Grenfell fire

LONDON

LONDON'S Metropolitan Police said Tuesday it will seek criminal charges against 57 people and 20 companies over the 2017 Grenfell Tower inferno, Britain's worst residential fire in recent history in which 72 people were killed. The individuals and companies are suspected of criminal offences including corporate manslaughter, gross negligence manslaughter, misconduct in public office and fraud, police said.

The Met said it will submit evidence to the Crown Prosecution Service (CPS), which brings public prosecutions in England and Wales, this autumn.

Charges could be brought by June 2027, according to the police -- which would mark 10 years since the disaster.

The fire started in a faulty freezer and spread rapidly due to combustible cladding on the 24-storey block, home to hundreds of residents in a deprived part of Britain's richest borough.

A public inquiry report published in 2024 found the deaths were "all avoidable" and blamed "systematic dishonesty" of building firms as well as government and regulatory failures.

Survivors have long accused the government and law enforcement of dragging their feet on criminal probes and housing reforms following the disaster. AP
