'IT WILL GET WORSE' IF HORMUZ ATTACKS CONTINUE: TRUMP

US hasn't learned bullying isn't cost-free, says Iran

ANKARA, DUBAI, TEHRAN

THE United States launched new airstrikes against Iran early Thursday, and Tehran responded by targeting US-allied Mideast countries in an exchange of fire that derailed an interim deal intended to help end the war in the Middle East.

Back-and-forth attacks, including a day earlier, have repeatedly threatened the ceasefire. But Thursday's appeared bigger all around, with sirens sounding at least three times in Bahrain, home to the U.S. Navy's 5th Fleet headquarters, and missiles targeting Kuwait and Qatar.

After leaving a NATO summit in Turkey, Trump on Thursday posted several videos on his social media site of what he said were explosions in Iran and issued another warning to the Islamic Republic.

"This is in retribution for yesterday's bombing of ships by Iran. If it happens again, it will get much worse!" Trump wrote.

Trump also renewed his past threats to hit Iran's civilian infrastructure, including electric and desalination plants, and to seize Kharg Island, through which some 90% of Iranian oil exports pass.

The new attacks, despite the ceasefire, could reflect a divide among Iran's leadership. Hard-liners want to ensure lasting control over the Strait of Hormuz, a critical lever in confronting the West. Pragmatists want a permanent peace deal to lift international sanctions and provide needed economic relief.

Parliament Speaker Mohammad Bagher Qalibaf, a key negotiator in talks seeking a permanent end to the war, was defiant in a post on X on Thursday morning: "America still hasn't learned that bullying and breaking promises are no longer cost-free. Let me put it plainly: If you strike, you'll get hit." AP

Germany inks deal with US to buy Tomahawk cruise missiles

BERLIN

GERMANY has struck a deal to buy US-made Tomahawk cruise missiles and station them in the country, Chancellor Friedrich Merz said Thursday.

The agreement on the long-range missiles, which are used to strike targets deep inside enemy territory, was reached this week on the sidelines of the NATO summit in Turkey's capital, Ankara, Merz said.

"This will close an important strategic gap in our defense, and at the same time, we will work to develop our own European systems and station them in Europe," he told German parliament after returning from the two-day summit. The deal struck with the Trump administration amounts to broader export of US know-how to some of its allies in Europe, whose security posture has been upended by Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine in early 2022.

German Chancellor Friedrich Merz

The Tomahawk cruise missile has been in the U.S. military's inventory since the 1980s. While slow by missile standards, it flies around 100 feet (about 30 meters) off the ground, making it harder to detect by defense systems.

The Tomahawk has a range of around 1,600 kilometers (1,000 miles) and precision guidance systems that make it the go-to weapon for striking targets that are deep inland or in hostile territory. The deal centers a U.S. commitment to give Germany approval in August to procure an undisclosed number of Tomahawks and corresponding ground-based Typhoon launchers. AP
