

ID cards for school teachers

OUR CORRESPONDENT

Cooch Behar: The District Primary School Council (DPSO) in Cooch Behar is distributing identity cards to all primary school teachers in the district on Friday, as teachers working in schools near the India-Bangladesh border are often questioned by Border Security Force (BSF) personnel. Rajat Barman, the DPSO chairman, handed out identy cards to several teachers, including those from border areas, at the DPSO office on Friday. All teachers will receive the cards gradually. Many schools in Cooch Behar are close to the India-Bangladesh border, some within just 100 metres of the barbed wire fencing. Teachers frequently face difficulties while travelling to and from work.

SNEHAMOY CHAKRABORTY

Calcutta: The BJP doesn't want President's rule in Bengal and is confident that the Assembly elections will be held on time, as any central intervention would help chief minister Mamata Banerjee play the victim card.

"I am sure that there will be no such situation as a President's rule. The party is very confident of winning this election," said a senior BJP leader.

The appointment of R.N.

Ravi as Bengal governor had set tongues wagging that the BJP was mulling the President's rule in the state before the elections. Political circles have begun speculating whether the replacement of C.V. Ananda Bose with a "strong" figure like Ravi indicated that the Centre was preparing the ground in anticipation that the ongoing process, particularly the cases pending adjudication, might not end on time.

"If there is President's rule or some kind of interim central intervention before the elections, it would help Mamata play the victim card, which the party is not ready to hand over, and that is why we don't want such a situation to come," a top BJP leader said.

A source in the BJP said it was the Trinamool Congress that floated the narrative of President's rule by linking it to the appointment of the new governor as part of its political strategy.

The chief minister wrote on her social media handle that she was "shocked and deeply concerned" by the news of Bose's resignation and Union home minister Amit Shah's communication to her that Ravi would be the new man at Raj Bhavan.

BJP insiders said the party were more interested in pressing the Election Commission to hold the polls in the fewest phases, and it would raise the demand during its scheduled meeting with the commission on March 9. Chief election commissioner Gyanesh Kumar is set to visit the state between March 8 and 10.

However, a section of BJP leaders still feels that the possibility of President's rule cannot be completely ruled out, as both the Congress and the CPM have started demanding that no election be held without clearing the 60 lakh voters whose cases are pending adjudication.

However, another BJP leader disagreed with that concern, saying that around 7 lakh such cases had already been cleared, and there was still time until the filing of nominations to settle the remaining cases. "We hope it will be completed and the elections will take place on time, ensuring the BJP comes to power," said the leader.

Experts have said there is also a constitutional provision wherein the chief minister must be asked to continue as chief advisor under Presidential supervision.

"There are two options in President's rule. Either it would be outright President's rule by the chief minister or it could be Mamata Banerjee as chief advisor to the governor under the Presidential supervision," said political scientist Biswanath Chakraborty.
