Prayagraj The Uttar Pradesh Secondary Education Board (UPSEB) which conducts one of the largest public examinations in the world, is set to begin its High School and Intermediate examinations from Wednesday with a staggering 3,57,778 students registered this year. Of these, 2,56,486 students will appear for the Class 10 exams and 2,50,002 for Class 12. Remarkably, the total number of candidates exceeds the population of 74 countries, highlighting the extraordinary scale of the examination process in Uttar Pradesh.

Globally, around 165 countries are recognised by the United Nations, and the fact that the number of UP Board examinees alone surpasses the population of more than one-third of them underscores the magnitude of the exercise. The examinations will be conducted at 8,033 centres across the state, requiring massive logistical planning, security arrangements, and administrative coordination. Interestingly, while the numbers remain enormous, there has been a decline compared to previous years. In 2024, a record 39.5 lakh candidates registered for the board examinations. Officials attribute this subsequent drop to stricter anti-cheating measures and higher monitoring systems, which reduced the influx of students allegedly seeking to pass exams through unfair means.

The journey of the UP Board reflects a transformation in its history over the past century. Established in 1921, the board conducted its first public examinations in 1923 with just 5,344 candidates. Since then, High School and Intermediate examinations have been added, and the board has grown into a massive educational institution. At that time, 170 centres were set up for Class 10 and a single centre for Class 12. Over the decades, the number of examinees steadily increased, turning the board into the world's largest school-level examination-conducting body.

From a few thousand candidates in the early 20th century to over 35 lakh this year, the UP Board's evolution mirrors the expansion of access to secondary education in India's most populous state. As the examinations continue on Feb 18, authorities stress the formidable task of ensuring the smooth, fair, and transparent conduct of an assessment exercise larger than the population of dozens of nations.

'Correct subject, gender code errors'

UP Board Directs Schools For Ease Of Students

Times News Network

Prayagraj: Ahead of UP Board High School and Intermediate examinations beginning Feb 18, the Board directed schools to correct immediately pending errors in students' subject combinations and gender codes to ensure they were allowed to appear in the exams.

Board secretary Bhagwati Singh, however, warned strict action would be taken against principals who failed to rectify mistakes despite multiple opportunities.

Board clarified that since district-wise and centre-wise question papers had been dispatched, any subject correction must be made carefully so that students were permitted to sit for revised subjects. Approval for such corrections must be obtained from the regional offices of additional secretary concerned by March 10 at the latest.

Earlier, Board activated its website several times to alert principals to correct errors in students' academic details online in the interest of students. Official applications were also accepted through regional offices for remaining discrepancies. Despite that, considerable number of errors were reported from some districts of uncorrected subject and gender code errors.

Strict vigil: 1,600 officials deployed for inspections

Monitoring of the exams will be carried out through control rooms set up at five regional offices and all district headquarters. To ensure strict supervision, 1,607 officials, including LDO sector magistrates and 427 sub-magistrates, have been deployed for inspections. Furthermore, 480 mobile squads and 50 divisional mobile teams (509 in total) will conduct surprise inspections at examination centres during the exams.

To ensure the security of question papers stored in strong rooms, officials and staff have been assigned round-the-clock duties in three shifts at the Command and Control Room at the Board headquarters. Additional secretary (Administration) Sandeep Kumar Singh has been appointed as the nodal officer for the first shift, senior financial and accounts officer Vikram Singh for the second shift and additional secretary (Research) Sandeep Singh for the third shift. Deputy secretary (Administration) Devraj Singh has been designated as nodal officer. Additionally, 18 divisional-level supervisors and 75 state-level district supervisors have been appointed for oversight.

In a first, the Board has ordered the issuance of identity cards to non-teaching staff at examination centres. Previously, only invigilators were issued ID cards. Board secretary Bhagwati Singh said that the step aims to ensure a copying-free examination process. QR code-enabled printed ID cards for invigilators had already been uploaded on the Board's portal, and instructions were earlier sent to all District School Inspectors. Now, QR code-based ID cards for non-teaching staff performing various duties at examination centres have been uploaded. School principals have been instructed to download and print the ID cards of non-teaching staff in duplicate from the Board's portal. One copy, duly countersigned, will remain with the principal, while the other will be kept in office records. District School Inspectors will be responsible for ensuring that no incorrect ID cards are issued.

Emphasising collective responsibility, Bhagwati Singh said, "The success of the Board examinations depends not only on administrative structures but also on the honest participation of students, parents, teachers, and society." He warned that students caught cheating could face cancellation of their exams, legal action, and even debarment from future examinations.
