

Palayam Imam’s call to open mosques, homes to Pongala devotees goes viral

The Hindu Bureau
THIRUVANANTHAPURAM

Friday prayers at the famed Palayam mosque in Thiruvananthapuram became another landmark moment in the syncretic ethos of the State when an appeal by the Imam V.P. Suhaib Maulavi during his sermon became viral.

The Imam urged people of Muslim faith to become exemplary hosts to women and children reaching the State capital for the renowned Attukal Pongala festival in a few days from now. The Attukal Pongala, also known as women’s Sabarimala, will be held on March 3. The annual event sees lakhs of women reach the city to offer prayers prepare the Pongala offering for the Attukal Devi.

In the sermon, the Imam mentioned though that Muslims did not observe the Pongala rituals and traditions, they could welcome those reaching the capital city to attend the festival. “Like last year, Pongala coincides with the holy month of Ramadan this time too. We should share the experiences of joy, brotherhood, and love during Ramadan with our sisters and their children,” Imam Suhaib Maulavi said.

He urged the Muslim community to arrange drinking water, Ramadan delicacies, and resting facilities for the guests. “Our mosques and homes should be opened to them. This is an occasion to demonstrate our love and brotherhood”.

Rising Islamophobia

The Imam urged the Muslim faithful to be very aware that only with love and fraternity could the rising Islamophobia and hatred in the world and India be countered. It was an attempt to reinforce the message of harmony among all, irrespective of caste and religion, the Maulavi said.

The Imam’s message has gone viral, with clips being shared widely to underline the message of religious solidarity.

Kasaragod temple hosts community iftar

KOZHIKODE

In a notable act of communal harmony, a temple in Kasaragod recently hosted a community iftar in its courtyard.

The Sree Poobanam Kuzhi Temple at Panayal near Bekal organised the gathering on Thursday, which was attended by around 200 people. The iftar, where participants shared a meal within the temple premises, highlighting local unity, was part of the Brahmakalashotsavam marking the re-consecration of the temple’s deities.

“Our aim was to strengthen communal harmony. Muslims live around the temple and have always been very helpful to us. As they were observing the Ramadan fast, they could not participate in the anna-danam (community feast) held as part of the temple’s re-consecration festival. As a gesture of inclusion and goodwill, a community iftar was organised,” said Chandran V, chairman, Temple programme committee. On Thursday morning, an interfaith conference set the tone. By evening, the temple courtyard had turned into a space of shared fasting and fellowship.

Sajid Mavval, a resident, said the iftar held in the temple courtyard has helped in strengthening communal harmony and brotherhood.

“The temple has been there for centuries, and this was the first time an iftar was organised there. We were fortunate to experience something that even our forefathers never had the opportunity to witness,” Mr. Mavval added.
