Chief minister Yogi Adityanath meets Singapore president Tharman Shanmugaratnam, in Singapore on Tuesday

Lucknow: Chief minister Yogi Adityanath and a delegation of senior officials from UP signed an important MoU with AISATS in Singapore for an investment of Rs 4,458 crore.

The company will establish two major projects at Noida International Airport in Jewar, including a state-of-the-art cargo campus and an air catering kitchen.

A govt spokesperson said the collaboration was important not just to ensure world-class facilities at the upcoming airport in UP, but also to provide a massive boost to economic activities in North India and further strengthen the state's position on the international map.

As per the MoU, AISATS will construct a state-of-the-art cargo campus within the Jewar Airport premises. The facility is planned to become a major hub for not just UP but all of North India for air freight and logistics. With Noida Airport being developed with multi-modal connectivity, it will become easier to pitch the new facility as a strategic hub for international trade, which will accelerate export and import activities and benefit sectors such as electronics, pharmaceuticals, and agricultural products.

The collaboration was important not just to ensure world-class facilities at the upcoming airport, but also to provide a boost to economic activities in North India

Under the second MoU, a state-of-the-art, world-class air catering kitchen is proposed to be established at the airport. This kitchen will provide high-quality meals for flights operating from Noida International Airport and also be supplied to other nearby airports in North India.

"This initiative will strengthen the food processing and supply chain network in the region and generate thousands of direct and indirect employment opportunities," an official said.

Positive transformation in investors' perception towards UP, says Yogi

Today India and UP are being viewed in an extremely positive light at the global level. Some of the companies here have already invested in the Ganga Expressway, which is being developed as the country's longest expressway. There has been a 360-degree positive transformation in investors' perception towards UP," he said.

He added that the UP delegation also visited highly advanced facilities, especially the cargo facilities and MRO (Maintenance, Repair and Overhauling), where they witnessed Singapore's expertise and studied it for developing the soon-to-be operational Noida International Airport at Jewar.

"Currently, many aircraft from India and across the world come to Singapore for their MRO work. Such a facility can be developed in India, especially at Jewar. Investors made serious preparations on this subject and are ready to take forward the possibilities with UP," he said.

The CM said that the delegation also visited Singapore's skilling centre, ITE, and added that UP was following a similar model to improve skilling in every district and to link it with employment through the development of Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel Employment Zones. UP govt would be collaborating with ITE to further its programme. Yogi appreciated the role played by finance minister Suresh Khanna, industrial development minister Nand Gopal Gupta 'Nandi', and all members of his delegation. He also expressed gratitude to the Indian High Commissioner and his team, "who played an important role in effectively presenting UP's potential in sectors such as trade, technology, tourism, logistics, infrastructure, data centre, semiconductor, MRO and skilling".

"I am confident that the investment agreements signed and proposals received in Singapore will accelerate UP's progress towards achieving the target of a USD 1 trillion dollar economy," he said.

Chief minister Yogi Adityanath with Singapore deputy PM Gan Kim Yong during a meeting, in Singapore

Lucknow: On the second and concluding day of his Singapore visit, chief minister Yogi Adityanath and UP delegation met Singapore's deputy PM and minister for trade and industry Gan Kim Yong, and coordinating minister for national security and minister for home affairs K Shanmugam.

Discussing UP's emergence as an investment hub, the delegation also sought Singapore's expertise in urban planning, internal security frameworks and digital governance to make UP a USD 1 trillion economy.

In his meeting with Gan Kim Yong, the CM highlighted UP's pro-business environment, detailing the availability of land and its improving connectivity, especially with the opening of the Noida International Airport in the coming days.

They discussed the possibility of companies from Singapore establishing industrial townships in the Delhi-NCR region, which would focus on semiconductor manufacturing and green hydrogen modules.

During his conversation with K Shanmugam, the CM underlined the improvement in law and order in UP, helped by modernisation of the policing system, and discussed Singapore's own technology-integrated policing model and disaster management protocols.

Inviting Singapore's business community to invest in UP, Yogi spoke about the state's logistics and data centre sectors, while assuring them that simplified regulatory processes and a single window clearance system played a crucial role in the completion of major projects in UP.

Invest UP team also signed an MoU with Singapore Cooperation Enterprise (SCE) for collaboration on thematic knowledge exchange, technical cooperation and advisory services to accelerate sustainable economic growth, industrial competitiveness, digital transformation and the development of modern infrastructure in UP.

In a joint statement issued by the two parties, they said they will organise study visits and leadership delegations, while also designing and implementing training and capacity building programmes. The MOU also provides for advisory and guidance support, jointly preparing and implementing technical cooperation projects, and securing collaboration from stakeholders and institutions from both govt and private sectors.

A senior official said that if needed, separate written agreements could be executed for specific projects, with details about the scope of work, timelines and financial provisions.

Discussions on detailed project agreements will begin within two months, with an effort to finalise them within six months.

"Through this partnership, UP will benefit from Singapore's experience in areas such as administrative practices, urban planning, industrial cluster development, logistics and digital governance," said an official.

Mahana: House debate now seen as meaningful and result-oriented

97% Of Budget Session Was Productive

Satish Mahana addressing a press conference in Lucknow on Tuesday

Lucknow: Asserting that the public perception of the state legislature was undergoing a remarkable transformation, Speaker Satish Mahana on Tuesday said the House discussions once viewed with doubt and disappointment are now increasingly seen as serious, meaningful, and result-oriented forum of democratic debate.

Addressing a press conference in Lucknow four days after the conclusion of UP House budget session, Mahana said in a democratic system, every institution and individual must function within their constitutional limits while fulfilling their respective responsibilities. Mahana highlighted how the 18th Assembly — the present House — has upheld democratic values while embracing innovation, transparency, and modern technology to reform its work culture.

"Assembly is no longer just a historic building. It has evolved into a vibrant platform of accountability, discipline, and the expression of public aspirations," he said.

Describing the budget session as significant and thought-provoking, the Speaker said the annual budget for the financial year was discussed in detail with seriousness and depth. He said demands for grants from various departments were deliberated systematically, and several important public-interest bills were passed. The Speaker said that through the Question Hour, the accountability of govt was ensured, while Zero Hour provided members an opportunity to raise pressing public issues effectively.

"All of this demonstrates that the Assembly continues to serve as a powerful bridge between the people and govt," he said.

Mahana expressed satisfaction that both govt and the opposition respected parliamentary decorum throughout the session. "Differences of opinion are natural in a democracy, but dialogue, restraint, and civility form its true spirit," he said, noting that the session witnessed healthy debates, logical arguments, and constructive participation.

Calling the media the fourth pillar of democracy, the Speaker extended special thanks to journalists for helping convey a positive image of the Assembly to the public.

He expressed gratitude to all members of the House, parliamentary affairs minister Suresh Khanna, leader of the opposition Mata Prasad Pandey, and leaders of different parties.

He reaffirmed his commitment to preserving the dignity, transparency, and accountability of the House, and strengthening the tradition of healthy and meaningful dialogue in the future.

Data shared by the Assembly secretariat shows that the 10-day budget session spanned over 75 hours, with the total operational period stretching over 72 hours and 45 minutes. The House remained disrupted for 2 hours 23 minutes. In this way, around 97% of the total session was deemed 'productive'.

A total of 2,427 questions were received during the session, reflecting high engagement from members. Of these, 2,322 questions (95.7%) were submitted through the online system, highlighting the Assembly's increasing reliance on digital processes. Under Rule 300, sixteen notices were received, of which three were admitted and 13 rejected. Likewise, 694 notices were received under Rule 301, of which 358 were admitted and 336 rejected.

Likewise, under Rule 56 (short duration discussion), 62 notices were submitted, of which 16 were accepted. Similarly, 893 notices were received under Rule 51. Of these, 23 were admitted for discussion.

3 get life term for murder in Ambedkar Nagar

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Lucknow: An Ambedkar Nagar court on Tuesday awarded life imprisonment to three accused in a 2016 murder, holding them guilty of murder, criminal conspiracy, and destruction of evidence after finding the charges proved beyond reasonable doubt.

The judgment was delivered by additional sessions judge Ram Vilas Singh.

Those sentenced include Mulayam Yadav, Ajay Kumar Yadav, and former block head Ajay Pratap Singh alias Ajay Sipahi. The court sentenced each of them to life imprisonment, along with a fine of Rs 10,000 each.

On March 23, 2016, the trio had shot and killed one Mansharam Yadav over an old poll-related rivalry.

Investigations revealed that the murder stemmed from political enmity linked to the 2015 gram pradhan elections. Prime accused Mulayam Yadav, who contested the polls, allegedly held Mansharam responsible for his defeat, as the latter supported a rival candidate.
