

'HC orders to avoid dumping in Rajpur rivers not being followed'

Tanmayee Tyagi@timesofindia.com

Dehradun: Environmentalists and residents in Dehradun's Rajpur have claimed that directives by Uttarakhand high court to stop dumping debris in Rispana and Bindal rivers remain largely ignored. They alleged that construction debris continues to be dumped into the rivers, worsening their condition.

Environmentalist Reenu Paul said, "Despite clear directions, compliance is lacking. Debris continues to be dumped in our rivers. The tragedy of Sept last year, which resulted in at least 30 deaths, was a direct result of this lack of compliance." She added that debris from road construction and untreated sewage from nearby settlements had significantly narrowed parts of Rispana, disrupting the river's natural flow and contributing to flooding risks.

Environmentalists said debris from nearby settlements had significantly narrowed parts of Rispana, disrupting the river's natural flow

Residents also claim that while authorities are relocating people from Kathbanga, new settlements continue to emerge along riverbanks behind Canal Road, Dehradun. Advocate Abhijay Negi said the matter remains pending before the court and the alleged non-compliance will be raised again. Meanwhile, officials from Dehradun Municipal Corporation said debris-removal work is ongoing under a new "100 Days: Reviving Our Rivers" mission launched earlier this month. Attempts to reach secretary Nitish Jha for comment were unsuccessful.

In March 2025, HC had instructed multiple departments, including the forest, urban development, irrigation and revenue, as well as municipal commissioners overseeing the streams to ensure compliance with environmental regulations. The court had also directed DGP to instruct local SHO to register FIRs against individuals found dumping debris into the water bodies and to submit a compliance report. "By this order, we direct the authorities to undertake expeditious consideration of such matters, as the same is in the larger interest of the public," the court order stated.

CAG flags 'gaps' in Namami Gange implementation

Solid Waste Mgmt In Ganga-Front Towns Also Raised As Concern

Shivani Azadi@timesofindia.com

Dehradun: A performance audit by the Comptroller and Auditor General of India (CAG) has flagged several shortcomings in the implementation of the Namami Gange Programme in Uttarakhand between 2018 and 2023. The report, titled "Performance Audit of Implementation of the Namami Gange Programme by Uttarakhand", found that the State Ganga Committee and the State Mission for Clean Ganga "did not effectively plan and implement sewage treatment infrastructure in collaboration with local communities".

As per the report, state govt "did not contribute funds from its own resources to improve sewerage infrastructure in Ganga-front towns. As a result, many sewage treatment plants (STPs) remain either unconnected to household sewer networks or only partially connected".

The audit also noted that several existing STPs "lack sufficient treatment capacity, resulting in the discharge of significant quantities of untreated sewage into the river". It further pointed out that Uttarakhand Jal Sansthan "declined" to take over 18 STPs because of deficiencies in their construction and operation. Proper management of sewage sludge was also neglected.

The report observed that the State Ganga Committee "did not to conduct timely safety audits of STPs, which led to avoidable loss of human lives and damage to assets created under the programme". Despite these shortcomings, the report noted that water quality of the Ganga at Haridwar remained consistently in the 'B' category during the audit period, indicating water suitable for outdoor bathing but still requiring improved pollution control measures.

Auditors also flagged deviations during the tendering process. "The implementing agency relaxed the stringent tertiary treatment standards established by Indian Institute of Technology Roorkee. The faecal coliform limit of 0 MPN per 100 ml was relaxed to 100 MPN per 100 ml, the desirable limit as per norms of the National Green Tribunal," the report said. However,

The faecal coliform limit of 0 MPN per 100 ml was relaxed to 100 MPN per 100 ml, the desirable limit as per norms of the National Green Tribunal," the report said. However, the administrative approval and expenditure sanction (AA&ES) issued by the National Mission for Clean Ganga required that "all conditions recommended by IIT Roorkee in its appraisal report be strictly followed by the state govt and the Uttarakhand Panchayat Nigam".

Under the section titled construction of 'symbolic' STPs not connected with households, the audit found that "21 STPs constructed in seven towns were not connected to any households, rendering them symbolic in nature". These towns include Nandprayag, Karnaprayag, Rudraprayag, Kirtinagar, Chamoli, Srinagar and Srikot.

Solid waste management in Ganga-front towns was also flagged as a concern. During joint inspections of facilities and dumping grounds in 10 hill towns, auditors found that waste was being "indiscriminately" dumped on river slopes or disposed of by burning. "As a result, solid waste either ended up as ashes or remained at risk of being washed into the river during rainfall," the report noted.

The report said the Ganga originates as the Bhagirathi river from the Gangotri glacier at Gomukh and becomes the Ganga after meeting the Alaknanda at Devprayag. Sixteen towns in the Garhwal region, known as Ganga-front towns, are located along the river or its tributaries. While the river flows for about 294 km in Uttarakhand, from Gomukh to Haridwar, its total length exceeds 2,525 km.

HC asks HNB Garhwal University to consider OPS benefit for 6 employees

Gaurav Talwar@timesofindia.com

Dehradun: Uttarakhand high court directed Hemvati Nandan Bahuguna Garhwal University to consider granting benefit of Old Pension Scheme (OPS) to six employees and decide on their representation within a stipulated period. The order was delivered on March 9 and made available Thursday.

The writ petition, which was being heard by Justice Manoj Kumar Tiwari, noted that the petitioners were initially engaged in 2004 as Group 'C' employees in self-financed courses by the university as reflected in an order issued by the registrar on Dec 1, 2004. They were later appointed as daily clerks through an order dated April 16, 2007.

The petitioners argued that since their association with the university began before Oct 1, 2005 — when the New Pension Scheme (NPS) came into force — they should be granted the benefit of the OPS. However, the university maintained that the petitioners were formally employed only in 2007 and that their earlier engagement in self-financed courses was merely as casual staff.

The petitioners cited the case of Mahavir Prasad Ghildiyal, who was appointed by the registrar in 2007 but was later extended the OPS benefit after being granted the status of a regular employee with effect from Feb 12, 2004.

The court observed: "Having regard to the facts of the case, this court thinks that the ends of justice would be met if petitioners are permitted to make representation in the light of the benefit as given to Mahavir Prasad Ghildiyal."

Petitioners' advocate Abhijay Negi said, "The court was of the view that if the benefit of old pension scheme was granted to one employee, it could be extended to others in similar circumstances. The university was directed to consider the representation of six lower-division clerks and take a decision in light of the benefit granted to their colleague within next six months."

HC disposed of the petition, and directed the university to decide the matter within six months.
