

The diagrams illustrate the construction of a complex shape through a series of 10 steps. The components used are colored circles (blue, green, red, yellow, black) and gray ovals. The construction proceeds from left to right, with each step adding new elements to the previous configuration. The final shape is a complex, symmetrical figure composed of these elements.