

Initially appearing abandoned, it was later discovered that she had been chained and left by her family who lived across the street.

The reason behind the incident are yet to be ascertained and further investigation is in progress, he said, adding that a case under relevant provisions has been registered in this connection.

Police said the duo were acting on the directions of Davinderpal Singh alias Gopi Lahoria, a gangster reportedly operating from Canada.

surfaced on social media showed the 75-year-old woman tied in chains by her son and daughter-in-law and left outside their house for nearly 20 days in Chheharta area of Amritsar.

The NGO members rescued the woman and admitted her to Guru Nanak Hospital. However, the situation took a disturbing turn when her son and daughter-in-law allegedly reached the hospital, created a scene, and forcibly took her home — only to chain her again outside and reportedly deny her food.

Advocate Harsimran Singh, who is associated with the rescue effort, said that they immediately reached the spot when they were informed. “Even animals are not treated this way. When we reached the spot, the family abused us and even threatened legal action for intervening,” he said, adding that the accused, Sanjay, is her son and a driver. Sanjay’s wife is identified as Sunita.

The commission, in its notice, emphasized that the matter is extremely serious and directed officials to ensure immediate protection for the victim. It has also asked for a comprehensive action report by April 20 to determine further legal steps.

The incident has sparked outrage, raising serious concerns about elder abuse and the responsibility of communities to intervene in such cases.
