SCoR GM inspects routes in 4 divisions

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

COVERING nearly 3,500 kilometres across all four divisions of the newly formed South Coast Railway (SCoR) Zone, General Manager Sandeep Mathur concluded extensive field inspections to evaluate railway operations, safety measures, infrastructure projects, and passenger amenities.

Mathur inspected major routes, including the Ichapuram–Visakhapatnam (255 km), Vijayawada–Gudur–Renigunta (450 km), Tirupati–Guntakal (350 km), Visakhapatnam–Rajahmundry (210 km), Nandyal–Guntur (300 km), and Guntur–Madhira (100 km) sections.

The exercise encompassed detailed reviews of 35 major stations, 23 Amrit Bharat Station Scheme projects, track maintenance, signalling, level crossings, and tunnel construction. Safety remained the central focus, with Mathur monitoring track conditions, points and crossings, level-crossing preparedness, and monsoon readiness. Capacity-enhancement projects—including third-line works, yard remodelling, Rail Over Rail installations, and station redevelopments were closely reviewed, alongside ongoing redevelopment at Tirupati and Kadapa, and the proposed Nambur Line alignment.

He also assessed preparedness for the upcoming Godavari Pushkaram across Godavari, Rajahmundry, Kovvuru, Samalkot, Tuni, and Anakapalli stations, focusing on crowd management and pilgrim access routes in coordination with State authorities.

SVU sets up CoE in Virus-Like Particle Tech

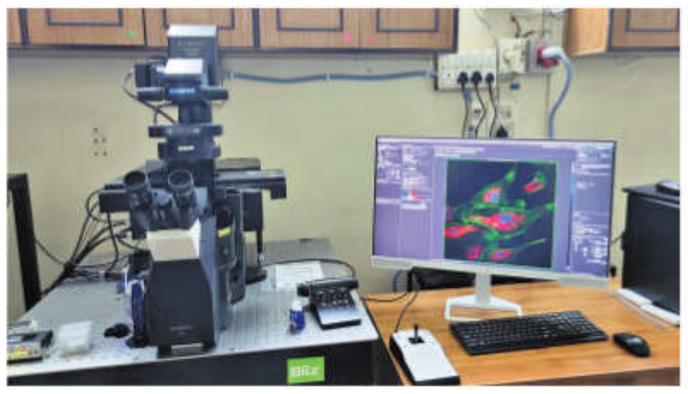

It's expected to emerge as a premier hub for cutting-edge research in virology, molecular biology and biosciences

NETHAJI KUMARAMANGALAM
@ Tirupati

SRI Venkateswara University (SVU) has taken a major step in strengthening advanced life sciences research with the establishment of a Centre of Excellence (CoE) in Virus-Like Particle (VLP) Technologies under the Rashtriya Uchchatar Shiksha Abhiyan (RUSA) Phase-II programme.

Equipped with India's first Olympus FV5000 Confocal Laser Scanning Microscope, the centre is expected to emerge as a premier hub for cutting-edge research, innovation and skill development in virology, molecular biology and biotechnology sciences.

The Olympus FV5000 Confocal Laser Scanning Microscope, one of the most advanced imaging systems, has been installed at Sri Venkateswara University, Tirupati, marking the first installation of its kind in India. It is also the only confocal microscopy facility among the 13 Andhra Pradesh State universities, significantly enhancing the University's research infrastructure. The microscope uses laser scanning and a confocal pinhole to generate high-resolution, three-dimensional images by eliminating out-of-focus light.

> It is the first system of its kind to be installed in India, and the only confocal microscopy facility available among the 13 State universities in AP. It will substantially expand research opportunities in virology
> Prof H Hema, Project Coordinator

Supported by ₹3.3 crore under RUSA Phase-II, the project has focused on upgrading existing research facilities, including cell culture and greenhouse laboratories, instead of creating new infrastructure, enabling the university to maximise the utilisation of funds while significantly enhancing its research capabilities.

The centre will focus on Virus-Like Particles (VLPs), biodegradable nano-scale particles that resemble viruses but are non-infectious. These particles have emerged as promising tools for vaccine development, targeted drug delivery, disease diagnostics, medical imaging and cancer therapeutics.

By integrating expertise in virology, biotechnology, nanobiotechnology and molecular biology, the centre aims to promote interdisciplinary research and collaborations with academic and research institutions across the country.

Training will be a key component of the initiative. Faculty members, and students from SVU and neighbouring universities will receive hands-on exposure to advanced laboratory techniques, while degree college teachers will also be trained to strengthen undergraduate education and enhance their capacity to secure competitive research.

The Centre of Excellence, housed at the Sri Venkateswara College of Sciences, has been entrusted to Prof M Hema of the Department of Virology and Prof M Rajasekhar of the Department of Zoology.

Speaking to TNIE Project Coordinator Prof Hema said the installation of the Olympus FV5000 Confocal Laser Scanning Microscope marks a historic milestone for the university. "It is the first system of its kind to be installed in India and the only confocal microscopy facility available among the 13 State universities in Andhra Pradesh. The microscope produces high-resolution three-dimensional images by eliminating out-of-focus light, enabling researchers to visualise cells, tissues and microorganisms with exceptional clarity," she explained.

She added that the advanced imaging platform would substantially expand research opportunities in virology and biotechnology by facilitating studies on virus entry, replication, virus-host interactions, protein localisation, live-cell imaging and nanoparticle-based drug delivery.

"For VLP technology, the system enables tracking of fluorescently labelled particles, monitoring their uptake inside cells and validating cargo delivery, thereby accelerating research on next-generation vaccines and nanocarrier-based therapeutics," Hema said.

Resolve all pending issues by Aug 15: AP JAC Amaravati ultimatum to govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Vijayawada

AP JAC Amaravati chairman Bopparaju Venkateswarlu and other leaders attend the State level meeting held at Revenue Bhavan in Vijayawada on Sunday | EXPRESS

ACCUSING the State government of deliberately diverting employees' agitation by holding talks without announcing concrete decisions, the AP JAC Amaravati on Sunday issued an ultimatum threatening State-wide direct agitation if their pending financial and service demands are not resolved by August 15.

The decision was taken during the AP JAC Amaravati meeting held at the Revenue Bhavan, under the chairmanship of Bopparaju Venkateswarlu.

Addressing the gathering, Venkateswarlu expressed deep dissatisfaction among employees over the lack of progress following two-day deliberations with key ministers on July 10 and 11, as well as a cabinet subcommittee meeting on July 22.

Highlighting the mounting financial strain on State workers, Venkateswarlu stated that pending employee dues accumulated to ₹28,000 crore under the previous administration.

He said the pending dues under the current coalition rule are ₹25,000. Clarifying that employees were not seeking doles or bonuses but legally entitled arrears for services rendered, he urged the government to log overdue payments on individual pay slips if immediate disbursement is not feasible.

He further condemned the non-payment of Dearness Allowance (DA) instalments over the past two years, noting that workers were forced to forgo financial benefits from three Pay Revision Commissions (PRCs) while the 12th PRC commission setup remains stalled. The JAC chief also raised concerns over unfulfilled electoral promises.

Five-member panel constituted to study tiger conservation

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Vijayawada

THE Andhra Pradesh government has constituted a five-member high-powered committee to study tiger conservation and management measures in the State. The decision follows the recent suspicious death of a tigress in the Nallamala forests, which Deputy Chief Minister Pawan Kalyan described as a serious matter requiring immediate review.

The committee will examine conservation systems in the Nagarjunasagar–Srisailam Tiger Reserve, one of the largest tiger habitats in the country, and prepare a comprehensive report with recommendations for future action. Pawan Kalyan emphasised that tiger protection is central to forest and biodiversity conservation, and said the committee's recommendations will help strengthen measures in the Nagarjunasagar–Srisailam Tiger Reserve.

Vande Bharat Sleeper from Vizag to Bengaluru likely

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Visakhapatnam

SOUTH Coast Railway (SCoR) has begun a feasibility study for operating a Vande Bharat Sleeper service between Visakhapatnam and Bengaluru, according to an internal communication.

The exercise is part of an effort to identify feasible train paths and suitable routes for introducing additional train services from Visakhapatnam. The communication is an internal exercise intended to seek operational inputs, feasibility and any decision on introducing the service will be taken only after approval from the Railway Board.

According to the communication dated July 31, officials of South Western Railway and the Visakhapatnam, Vijayawada, Guntur and Guntakal divisions have been asked to examine the feasibility of operating the train and furnish en route timings along with details of any operational constraints.

The communication includes tentative timings for a six-day-a-week Vande Bharat Sleeper service between Visakhapatnam and Bengaluru via Vijayawada, Guntur, Nadikudi, Guntakal and Dharmavaram. The proposed schedule envisages departure from Visakhapatnam at 8.15 pm, and arrival at Bengaluru at 10 am the following day, with the return service leaving Bengaluru at 8 pm, and reaching Visakhapatnam at 10 am. The train will not operate from Visakhapatnam on Mondays and from Bengaluru on Tuesdays.

The internal note also mentions the use of two 20-coach Vande Bharat Sleeper. The timings and operational details are tentative and meant only for feasibility assessment. Any decision to introduce the service will require approval from the Railway Board.
