Stalin calls TVK's maiden Budget a 'damp squib', says poll promises ignored

STATESMAN NEWS SERVICE
Chennai, 5 August

DMK president and former Tamil Nadu Chief Minister M.K. Stalin on Wednesday criticised the TVK government's maiden Budget, calling it a 'damp squib' that lacked original ideas, offered no long-term vision and failed to honour several key election promises.

Reacting to the Revised Budget Estimates for 2026-27 presented in the Tamil Nadu Assembly, Stalin said the public had expected significant announcements from the new government but had been left disappointed.

"People expected it to be a 'blast', but it turned out to be a 'waste'. It is a remake of the 'Dravidian Model' government's Budget," Stalin said in a post on social media, alleging that the TVK administration had repackaged schemes introduced during the previous DMK government.

He claimed the Budget failed to address several pressing issues facing the state, including the challenges confronting farmers, concerns over electricity billing and the rising cost of living. Stalin also questioned the absence of provisions for several major promises made by TVK during the Assembly election campaign.

"It is completely silent on the promise of ₹2,500 for women, ₹4,000 for unemployed youth, six free LPG cylinders and a complete waiver of crop loans," he said.

The DMK chief argued that the Budget lacked a clear long-term development roadmap and accused the government of failing to convert its electoral assurances into concrete financial commitments.

Leader of the Opposition and former Deputy Chief Minister Udhayanidhi Stalin also criticised the Budget, alleging that the TVK government had simply renamed several welfare schemes introduced by the previous DMK administration.

Speaking to reporters at the Secretariat after the Budget presentation, Udhayanidhi said the government had sought to present existing schemes as new initiatives instead of unveiling substantial programmes of its own.
