

IRAN AND OMAN MAKE PROGRESS ON HORMUZ DEAL

Deal emerging on ships entering Gulf via Iran route and taking Oman path for exit

ISLAMABAD/CAIRO

IRAN and the Gulf Arab state of Oman have made progress towards a deal to reopen the Strait of Hormuz, a potential breakthrough that could help wind down the war in the West Asia, regional officials said on Tuesday. Pakistan has stepped up its diplomatic engagement with Iran, with Foreign Minister Ishaq Dar inviting his Iranian counterpart Abbas Araghchi to Islamabad “at the earliest” for discussions, as efforts continue to revive diplomacy over the Strait of Hormuz.

Under the emerging agreement, ships would enter the Persian Gulf through an Iranian-controlled route and exit through a route controlled by Oman, with service fees charged for providing security and preserving the maritime environment, two regional officials told The Associated Press. They said negotiations were still underway and any final agreement would be linked to lifting the US blockade on Iran’s ports.

US Secretary of State Marco Rubio said “there’s been progress made in those talks, but not finality yet.”

“We’re hoping that will happen very shortly,” Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent told CNBC that “there is a chance we may have a deal today or tomorrow to open the strait and move towards a more normalised position in this conflict.” Asked whether there would be tolls for movement through the strait, Bessent said: “I think it would be freedom of movement.”

Meanwhile, a cargo ship reported being “hit by an unknown projectile” in the Strait of Hormuz off the coast of Oman, the United Kingdom Maritime Trade Operations Center said. The ship sustained damage, according to British maritime security firm Ambrey.

US President Donald Trump said Monday that the United States was in talks with Iran, describing it as Tehran’s “last chance” to reach a deal and avoid another military escalation.

Palestinians hold funeral for 112 Gaza strike victims

DEIR AL-BALAH

PALESTINIANS gathered on Tuesday for a mass funeral of more than 100 bodies finally recovered from a deadly Israeli strike in Gaza in 2023. More than 300 people were killed on November 22, 2023, weeks into the war with Hamas, when warplanes flattened a residential block in Gaza City’s Sabra neighbourhood. Around 40 bodies were recovered soon afterward in a frantic scramble of rough tools and bare hands, but most were buried deep beneath the rubble. Reports of the high number of victims in one of the war’s deadliest attacks took days to reach the public in the chaos just before its first ceasefire.

Over the weekend, first responders dug through the destroyed buildings and recovered remains of 112 victims, including 40 children, according to the Civil Defense, a rescue agency operating under the Hamas-run Interior Ministry. It said 157 bodies still have not been found.

“The only crime of these martyrs was that they remained steadfast and resilient in their homes, believing that these homes would protect them,” one relative, Taysir al-Hassayna, told The Associated Press following the funeral prayers. For the missing, it’s “as if their bodies had evaporated without a trace.”

Only now are some bodies of people killed in the war’s ferocious early months slowly being recovered, as a fragile ceasefire that took effect in October allows such efforts to push ahead in parts of devastated Gaza. Those discoveries have contributed to the war’s rising toll. The Hamas-led militant attack on southern Israel on October 7, 2023, killed around 1,200 people and saw 251 taken hostage. Israel’s retaliatory offensive has killed more than 73,377 Palestinians, including since the ceasefire, Gaza’s Health Ministry said. At least 7,400 people have been reported by relatives to still be under the rubble, Zaher al-Waheidi.

JERUSALEM:

The Trump administration assured Israel that any withdrawal from Gaza would begin only after Hamas completed its disarmament, easing Israeli concerns over a proposed phased pullout. Hamas said it remained committed to the ceasefire and awaited a response from mediators.
