Varanasi: Highlighting the scale of transformation in Prime Minister Narendra Modi's parliamentary constituency., chief minister Yogi Adityanath on Wednesday said development projects worth Rs 1 lakh crore have either been completed or are underway in Kashi over the past 12 years.

Speaking in Varanasi at the launch of the 9th National Nutrition Month, the CM said PM Modi has ensured that new technology and innovation reach Kashi while promoting development without discrimination.

"Since 2014, the PM has worked with the vision of strengthening the foundation of the country, and its impact is visible on the ground today. Schemes for the poor, malnourished children, pregnant women and lactating mothers have become an important part of the governance agenda," he said. He said the Prime Minister has set before the nation the goal of making India self-reliant and developed by the time it completes 100 years of Independence. This goal, he added, cannot be achieved from Delhi alone but must be built in villages, streets and at the grassroots level. "Anganwadi centres and schools of the Basic Education Council are important centres of this foundation," he said.

Describing Varanasi as PM Modi's workplace, Yogi said Kashi is not only the sacred land of Baba Vishwanath but also the spiritual and cultural capital of the Sanatan tradition. He said PM Modi has preserved Kashi's ancient identity while giving it a new form and recognition. "Today, Kashi, with a new radiance and a new form, is attracting the entire world," he said.

The CM said Kashi reflects a blend of tradition and modernity, adding that India's development model must adopt modern facilities while staying connected to its roots.

He said ongoing changes in nutrition and education are also part of this broader vision.

24K Saksham anganwadis for UP okayed: Union min

TIMES NEWS NETWORK

Varanasi: Union minister for women and child development Annpurna Devi reaffirmed govt's commitment to improving nutrition outcomes through Mission Saksham Anganwadi and Poshan 2.0.

Addressing the 9th Rashtriya Poshan Mah 2026 at the Rudraksh International Cooperation and Convention Centre (RICCC) in Varanasi on Wednesday, the minister said more than 14 lakh anganwadi centres are delivering nutrition, health and early childhood care services to over 7.5 crore children, 1.10 crore pregnant and lactating women, and nearly 16 lakh adolescent girls.

Highlighting the importance of the first 1,000 days of life, she said govt is upgrading two lakh anganwadi centres into Saksham Anganwadis. Of these, around 24,000 centres have been approved in Uttar Pradesh.

The minister also noted that the Pradhan Mantri Matru Vandana Yojana has completed ten years of implementation. The scheme has transferred more than ₹21,000 crore through DBT to over 4.65 crore mothers across the country. Emphasising community participation, she called for greater focus on dietary diversity, adequate protein intake, fresh hot cooked meals, sanitation and early childhood development. She urged citizens to make nutrition a Jan Andolan to realise the vision of a Suposhit Bharat and Viksit Bharat@2047.

CM Yogi vows strict action against those compromising daughters' safety

CM Yogi during annaprashan ceremony held during the launch of the 9th National Nutrition Month in the city; Union minister Annpurna Devi was also present

Varanasi: Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath on Wednesday said the state government's top priority is the safety of daughters, warning that anyone who attempts to compromise their security would have no option but "jail or hell."

He was addressing the "Working Women Honour Ceremony" organised at the Asha Education Group campus in Babatpur-Pindra during his visit to Varanasi. At the event, he honoured Anganwadi workers, cooks, sanitation workers and ASHA workers.

Yogi praised the gathering of women and said such programmes are important to recognise the contribution of half the population. He said Kashi is preserving its spiritual heritage and cultural values while establishing its identity at the global level. He added that Prime Minister Narendra Modi is committed to taking Kashi's identity to the world.

Highlighting women's safety, Yogi said Mission Shakti has provided a strong foundation for the security of women and girls. He said 20% reservation for women has been ensured in the Uttar Pradesh Police. The number of women in the state police has increased from around 10,000 before 2017 to nearly 45,000 now. He also said three women battalions of the PAC have been named after great women warriors—Rani Avanti Bai Lodhi, Veerangana Uda Devi and Veerangana Jhalkari Bai.

Referring to welfare schemes, the CM said the govt is not limited to framing policies but is also ensuring that benefits reach needy families. He mentioned the Pradhan Mantri Awas Yojana, Mukhyamantri Awas Yojana, Ujjwala Yojana, construction of household toilets, Beti Bachao Beti Padhao, Mukhyamantri Kanya Sumangala Yojana, Samuhik Vivah Yojana and Pradhan Mantri Matru Vandana Yojana, saying these initiatives have brought positive changes in the lives of women and girls.

Yogi said half the seats in Atal Residential Schools have been reserved for girls and education for daughters is being promoted through Kasturba Gandhi Balika Vidyalayas. He also referred to the Rani Laxmibai Scooty Yojana, under which meritorious girl students will be given scooters.

Emphasising women's economic empowerment, the Chief Minister said around 28 lakh women in the state are associated with economic activities through self-help groups. Schemes such as BC Sakhi and Drone Didi are creating new responsibilities and employment opportunities for women.

He said women are no longer behind in any field, including space technology, sports and the armed forces. The govt will ensure that no woman's dream remains unfulfilled due to a lack of capital.

Yogi also highlighted the One District One Product scheme, saying it is playing an important role in promoting traditional art and local products. He said efforts are being made to provide markets and employment opportunities for products ranging from Varanasi handicrafts and sarees to Firozabad's glass industry.

He said better roads, bridges, flyovers, highways, airports and expressways strengthen connectivity, which in turn boosts employment and economic activity. He also mentioned pension support under welfare schemes for widows, differently-abled and elderly women, saying they are being provided Rs 12,000 annually and the government is working to increase it.

A film was also screened during the programme, highlighting the govt's priorities regarding women's honour, safety, education, employment and economic self-reliance.

'Anganwadi centres being developed as foundation for nutrition'

CM Yogi visits a stall during the event on Wednesday

"Today, Anganwadi centres are being equipped with modern facilities and developed as a strong foundation for nutrition and early education," he said.

Yogi launched the ninth National Nutrition Month in Varanasi on Wednesday. Dedicated to the nutrition, health and care of pregnant and lactating women, children, adolescent girls and their families, the month will be observed from Sept 9 to Oct 8. He inspected an exhibition, held children in his arms, showered them with affection and performed their Annaprashan ceremony. He also interacted with Anganwadi workers from UP and other states and watched a short film on Anganwadi centres.

Linking ideal governance with Ram Rajya, Yogi referred to Goswami Tulsidas' lines, "Nahin Daridra Kou Dukhi Na Deena. Nahin Kou Abudh Na Lachhan Heena."

He said, "Its meaning is a system where no one is poor, unhappy, deprived, weak or helpless and every person can contribute to building a healthy and capable society. With this thinking, Central and state govts are working to strengthen maternal and child nutrition, women's health, early education and the Anganwadi system."

Yogi said a capable student would become a skilled youth who would contribute to Aatmanirbhar Bharat and take forward the resolve of Viksit Bharat. "Therefore, investing in nutrition, health and education in children's early years is an investment in the country's future," he said.

The chief minister said Anganwadi centres were in poor condition before 2017, with many in dilapidated condition and lacking basic facilities such as drinking water, toilets and hot meals. Supplementary nutrition supplies were also irregular.

After reviewing the system, the govt found serious irregularities and learnt that a person linked to the liquor mafia was involved in supplementary nutrition supplies. "Orders were immediately issued to examine its quality and changes were made in the supply system," he said.

Over the past nine and a half years, more than 70,000 Anganwadi centres have been given a new look, while new model centres are being developed with modern, child-friendly facilities. Around Rs 30 lakh is being spent on constructing and renovating one centre. Boundary walls, children's toilets, pure drinking water, nutrition gardens and LED screens are among the facilities being prioritised.

Yogi said this year's theme of National Nutrition Month is 'Meri Anganwadi, Meri Zimmedari', stressing that responsibility for Anganwadi centres is not limited to the govt. Anganwadi workers, helpers, Gram Panchayats and villagers would have to take ownership.

He identified five focus areas: dietary diversity and adequate protein; fresh, hot-cooked meals at Anganwadi centres; community ownership and accountability; early education; and Pradhan Mantri Matru Vandana Yojana.

He said a balanced and diverse diet was essential for children's physical and mental development and advised against excessive salt or sweetness. Adding carrots and other vegetables to moong dal khichdi, he said, could improve its taste, colour and nutritional value.

Yogi said around 1.90 lakh Anganwadi centres had been sanctioned in the state, with services being provided through 897 Child Development Projects. Nutrition services reach around 1.56 crore beneficiaries every month. Around 35.46 lakh children are provided hot-cooked meals, while the weight, stunting and health of around 46 lakh children are regularly monitored. He said the first 1,000 days of a child's life, from pregnancy through the early years, were extremely important. In line with the Centre's new nutrition guidelines, the state has implemented recipe-based supplementary nutrition. The Take-Home Ration (THR) system has been made technology-based, transparent and accountable. As many as 204 THR plants have been established, with women's Self-Help Groups playing an important role. More than 20 lakh women are associated with the system.

GPS tracking and real-time monitoring have been introduced from THR transportation to delivery at Anganwadi centres. A QR code has been placed on every packet for digital traceability. Quality control of supplementary nutrition has been entrusted to an important institution of the Government of India.

Yogi said Anganwadi centres were also being developed as hubs for early education and children's all-round development. In Bal Vatika, children are taught letters and numbers through games and activities according to their age and interests.

Sharing his experience at an Anganwadi centre in Kanpur, he said 20 to 22 children were being taught through games and songs. An Anganwadi worker was teaching number recognition through the rhyme, "Ek, ek, ek, meri naak ek and do, do, do, meri aankh do." Yogi said a three-year-old girl immediately repeated the rhyme when asked what she was learning.

Referring to facilities in schools under the Basic Education Department, Yogi said the govt's objective was not merely to ensure children's access to schools but also to provide them with a respectful and better environment.

He recalled seeing a girl going to school barefoot and without adequate warm clothes. Her younger brother had shoes, which made him realise the discrimination between sons and daughters in families and society.

'Can't work 24X7': Varanasi cop resigns

Lucknow: I'm not a special human, can't work 24x7," the expression in a constable's resignation letter to the Varanasi police commissioner, set tongues wagging about long duty hours for constabulary and prompted senior officers to persuade him to reconsider his decision.

In the letter, posted on the official WhatsApp group of Ramnagar police station, constable Devgan Kumar Chauhan wrote on Monday: "I am currently not capable of working 24x7 every day. Since I do not possess the powers of any special human, I request you to relieve me from my duties."

Chauhan also accused a head constable, referred to as a diwan, of irregularities in duty allocation. He alleged that some police officers considered close to the diwan were given comparatively easier schedules or rest, while attempts were made to assign round-the-clock duties to others.

The unusual wording drew the attention of senior police officials, who summoned both the SHO and the constable to ascertain the circumstances behind the move.

Chauhan was counselled, and his request for voluntary relief from service was not accepted, ACP Vijay Pratap Singh said. "Later, during a phone conversation, he made it clear that he wanted to continue in service," the ACP said.

The resignation letter was subsequently deleted from the official WhatsApp group, but by then screenshots of the message had already gone viral.

Police officials claimed that Chauhan had been under mental stress after being repeatedly assigned duty with a patient undergoing treatment at a trauma centre for several days. The ACP said the constable had gone home after completing his duty on Saturday night but was informed the following day that he would again have to accompany the patient. The officer added that Chauhan was also facing difficulties due to domestic issues. TNN

Varanasi slips to 34th spot in national clean air survey

Varanasi: Varanasi's performance in the Swachh Vayu Survekshan has continued to decline, with the city ranking 34th among cities with a population of more than 10 lakh in the 2026 assessment released by the Central Pollution Control Board on Monday.

The city secured 150 marks, a steep fall from its third-place national ranking three years ago, when it scored 191 marks.

The slide has raised concerns over the effectiveness of pollution-control efforts despite major budgetary allocations and monitoring infrastructure. Under the Smart City project, around 50 ambient air monitoring devices have been installed across Varanasi to track pollutants such as PM2.5 and PM10 in real time. The sensors are intended to identify pollution hotspots and support timely corrective action.

Municipal officials said ongoing construction, road dust and rising traffic pressure continue to pose major challenges to improving air quality. They said the municipal corporation has been taking measures to curb dust pollution, including spraying roads with water through multi-function sprinklers and anti-smog guns. Treated water from sewage treatment plants is being used for this purpose. Plans are also in place to install water fountains at major intersections. The municipal corporation said footpaths and road shoulders are being paved to prevent roadside dust from becoming airborne. Interlocking tiles are being laid, while pavements that allow grass to grow between them are also being developed. TNN

Two caught with ₹3.9cr gold

Varanasi: Chandauli police on Wednesday arrested two smugglers with 2.56kg foreign-origin gold worth Rs 3.9 crores being smuggled in an SUV to deliver in Delhi.

Providing details of the early morning action by a joint team of Chandauli police and SOG, Chandauli CO (Sadar) Namedra Kumar said that on receiving inputs regarding movement of gold smugglers, the team tried to intercept the SUV near Navhi culvert on Howrah-Delhi highway while checking vehicles coming from Bihar. When signalled to stop, the driver allegedly tried to speed away, but police blocked the vehicle and detained the occupants.

The arrested accused were identified as Zuber Mubarak Sheikh of Sangli in Maharashtra and Manish Kumar of Fatehabad in Haryana. During questioning, they divulged that gold was concealed in a specially fabricated box below the gear box of the vehicle. On opening the hidden compartment in the presence of officials of Income Tax department and the directorate of Revenue Intelligence, police recovered two bars wrapped in cloth belts and brown cello tape.
