VOTED FOR DECADES, BUT NOW 'NO MAPPING' TAG: FORMER SECY'S NAME MISSING FROM VOTER ROLLS

Affected voters asked to submit one of 11 specified documents to establish voter eligibility

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE omission of several long-time residents, including Dr Sharath Chandra, who was secretary in charge of science and technology in the Karnataka government, from the draft electoral rolls has raised questions over the SIR. Dr Chandra, who also served as former Karnataka State Pollution Control Board chairman and is a resident of Amarjyothi Layout, Cholanagar, Hebbal, said his name, despite figuring in the 2002 electoral rolls, is now shown as "No Mapping".

"I have downloaded the 2002 voter list from the website, and my name is clearly there. I provided all the required details, including the constituency, booth number, part number and serial number. Yet the draft list shows 'No Mapping'," said Dr Chandra, who is in his seventies.He said the problem is not only with him but several residents in the locality too have been affected. He has since received a notice asking him to produce any one of 11 specified documents to establish his eligibility as a voter. "What is disturbing is that the notice warns that giving false information is punishable. If a voter is accused of providing false information, why should the officer responsible for showing an existing voter as 'non-existent' not be held accountable for wrong information and harassment," he asked.

His wife, Dr Premalatha, a former director of the Indira Gandhi Institute of Child Health, said she too is a regular voter in the area. "I have voted since 2002. I filled up the SIR form, but my name does not figure in the new draft voter list," she said.

Another resident Dr SV Hegde, a former professor at the University of Agricultural Sciences who has been staying in the locality for nearly 35 years, said he was surprised that his name is missing from the draft rolls. "I am surprised that they left my name out. Many of my neighbours' names too are not on the list," he added.

He suspects that the omission could be because they failed to provide booth details during verification. "I wonder who will remember the booth number from 23 years ago? I have raised the issue with the BLO," he said. The electoral history of the area itself has added to the confusion, he said. "Our constituency was earlier Hebbal, then it moved to Yelahanka and now it is back to Hebbal again."

Dr Chandra said, "I always used to say that the most important right I have is the right to exercise my franchise. Now they have taken it away." He recalled an incident from his younger days when he was registered as a voter in Mysuru and discovered that somebody else had attempted to cast a vote in his name. "I cast a 'challenge vote.' Those days you could cast a challenge vote if you found that someone had cast your vote in proxy," he recalled.

The experiences of the three residents raise questions about how electoral databases are being reconciled with older rolls. They also underline the potential consequences of technical or documentation-related gaps in the process and point to the need for greater transparency and an effective grievance-redress mechanism.

Phase 2 slow in B'luru, gains momentum in other places

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE process of issuing notices and conducting hearings is on as part of the second phase of the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of electoral rolls. However, 36,49,373 notices are yet to be delivered to the people, according to the office of the Chief Electoral Officer (CEO), Karnataka. People in Hassan and Chitradurga districts have received the least number of notices at 1.25% and 1.70%, respectively. Bengaluru also ranks low in the list. It is 7.26% in BBMP's Central district where 31,159 notices have been delivered, followed by Bangalore Urban district 4.89% (46,271 notices), BBMP South district 4.05% and BBMP North district 13.15%.

As per data, 43,81,143 electors have been listed for issue of notices under the anomaly/ logical discrepancy and no-mapping categories. Of them, 7,31,770 notices have been issued so far.

In Bengaluru's BBMP Central district, notices have been issued to 4,29,310 people. In Bangalore Urban 9,45,720, BBMP North 6,13,266 and BBMP South 4,18,043 notices have been issued.

The process of hearing started on September 3. Till September 4, 206 cases have been heard. Hearings will continue till October 12 by electoral registration officers (EROs) and assistant EROs. Officials said information related to those listed under the anomaly and no-mapping categories has been shared with the registered political parties for verification.

The officials admitted that they have been receiving queries regarding electors being unable to find their names in the same part of the draft electoral roll where they had registered earlier. Due to rationalisation of polling stations and re-serialisation of electors, the part numbers and serial numbers have changed in many places. Hence, electors, who are unable to find their names in the previous parts, should search their EPIC numbers on voters.eci.gov.in or through the ECINET mobile application, the officials said.

To help voters, another special campaign will be held on September 19 and 20.

After rationalisation of polling stations, 1,873 new booth level officers (BLOs) and 3,926 EROs have been appointed. Bangalore Urban has the highest number of 512 new EROs, followed by BBMP North 322, Shivamogga 266 and BBMP South 237.

TN farmer leader demands ₹1L cr damage from K'taka

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE Cauvery water-sharing dispute escalated on Friday as South Indian Rivers Linking Farmers' Association president P Ayyakannu demanded that the Tamil Nadu government approach the Supreme Court to claim Rs 1 lakh crore in damages from Karnataka, accusing the neighbouring state of flouting the apex court's water-release order. Speaking to reporters, Ayyakannu alleged that Karnataka had failed to release water to Tamil Nadu in accordance with the Supreme Court's judgment, which he said was the reason the Tamil Nadu government had been unable to supply water to its farmers. He claimed Karnataka was currently releasing only 7,000 cusecs of water against a required minimum of 18,000 cusecs. When contacted for a response, Karnataka's Water Resources Minister N S Cheluvarayaswamy declined to comment.

Additional Chief Secretary (Water Resources) Gaurav Gupta said he "would not like to respond to the statement."

The remarks drew sharp criticism from farmer leaders in Karnataka. Kurubur Shantakumar pointed out that numerous taluks across Chamarajanagar, Mysuru and Mandya districts have been declared drought-hit, leaving no water available for crops in the region, even as calls are being made to sue Karnataka.

Chandrashekar, who said he has personally studied the Cauvery basin from Bhagamandala to the coast, questioned how such claims could be made while more than 120 taluks in Karnataka are reeling under drought.

KPSC scam: Vet officer post candidates urge govt to issue appointment orders

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

CANDIDATES selected for veterinary officer posts urged the state government to obtain an interim report from the Criminal Investigation Department (CID) which is probing the alleged recruitment scam in the Karnataka Public Service Commission (KPSC) within a month and issue appointment orders to the 300 candidates who are not directly involved in the irregularities.

The Veterinary Officer Posts Selected Candidates Committee, which held a press conference here on Friday, said that FIRs had been registered against 29 of the 329 selected candidates and that an investigation was underway. The remaining 300 candidates are also appearing for the inquiry as part of the probe. The committee said that delaying the appointments of candidates, who are not involved in the irregularities, could adversely affect veterinary services across the State.

Speaking to TNIE, a selected candidate, Dr Y. Guru Basavaraj, said the KPSC had initiated the recruitment process for 400 veterinary officer posts, comprising 342 general and 58 backlog posts. While 329 candidates were selected, 71 posts remained vacant due to the absence of eligible candidates.

He said that there were claims that the entire recruitment process had been compromised and questioned why the remaining 71 candidates were not selected. He also alleged that some people were trying to take advantage of the situation to mislead the media and the public about exams.

Police register zero FIR over 'purification' of Kharge venue

BENGALURU: The Vidhana Soudha police on Friday registered a zero FIR in connection with the alleged Shuddikaran (purification) of the Ramlila ground in Uttarakhand, days after Congress president Mallikarjun Kharge addressed a political rally at the venue on August 8. The police said the complaint was filed by T Ramappa, a former member of the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee's SC/ST wing. In his complaint, he alleged that the purification exercise was an insult to the community. The police registered the FIR under the Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, Section 196 (promoting enmity, hatred or ill-will between different religious, racial, language or regional groups, castes or communities) of the BNS, and Section 7 of the Protection of Civil Rights Act.
