AJP Observes 'Zubeen Garg Smriti Saptah' with Blood Donation Drives Across Assam

The Assam Rising, Guwahati, September 16: The Assam Jatiya Parishad (AJP) observed the second day of its week-long 'Zubeen Garg Smriti Saptah' on Monday as the 'Day of Humanity', paying tribute to late singer and musician Zubeen Garg through blood donation programmes held across Assam.As part of the observance, 101 AJP leaders, workers and supporters in each district participated in blood donation drives organised in memory of the celebrated singer. The party said the initiative was aimed at remembering Garg not only as an artiste but also for his humanitarian outlook and commitment to social causes.A central blood donation programme was organised at the playground of Narengi Krira Sangha in Guwahati. AJP president Lurinjyoti Gogoi participated in the programme and donated blood along with party leaders, workers and supporters.Similar blood donation programmes were organised simultaneously in several districts across the state as part of the week-long tribute to Garg. The party said the initiative sought to transform the singer's humanitarian values into concrete social action and encourage people to contribute to public welfare.The AJP described the second day of the memorial week as the 'Day of Humanity', highlighting what it termed Garg's strong humanist ideals. Through the blood donation campaign, the party sought to encourage people, particularly young citizens, to participate in activities that can directly benefit society.The initiative also reflects the widespread public sentiment surrounding Garg's legacy, with organisations and individuals across Assam continuing to organise programmes in his memory following his death.According to the AJP, the week-long observance is intended to remember different aspects of Garg's life and contributions while promoting social responsibility among the people. The party said that instead of limiting the memorial programmes to traditional tributes, it wanted to associate the singer's memory with activities that serve the wider community.The blood donation drives were therefore organised as a public welfare initiative, with party members and supporters volunteering to donate blood in Garg's memory.The AJP said the programmes across Assam would help carry forward Garg's message of humanity and compassion. It also appealed to people to participate in similar social initiatives and contribute towards building a more caring and responsible society.The second day of 'Zubeen Garg Smriti Saptah' thus combined remembrance with community service, with blood donors across the state paying tribute to the iconic Assamese artiste through an act intended to save lives.The week-long observance will continue with other programmes aimed at commemorating Garg and highlighting his contributions to Assamese society, culture and humanitarian causes.

ULFA-I Senior Cadre Anoljoy Asom Surrenders Before Tinsukia Police

The Assam Rising, Tinsukia, September 16: Senior cadre of the banned United Liberation Front of Asom-Independent (ULFA-I), Anoljoy Asom, surrendered before Tinsukia Police on September 14, in what is being seen as another setback for the insurgent outfit.According to information available, Anoljoy had been staying in hiding in Myanmar's Yajong area for a prolonged period. During his stay there, he reportedly married a Myanmar woman and had been living in the region for several years.He eventually decided to return to Assam and surrender before the Tinsukia Police, marking his return to the mainstream. The development comes amid continued efforts by security agencies to encourage members of insurgent groups to abandon militancy and return to normal life.Anoljoy's surrender is being viewed as a significant development for the security situation in Upper Assam, particularly in areas that have historically witnessed activities linked to ULFA factions. His decision to surrender could also indicate the continuing pressure faced by cadres operating in difficult conditions along the India-Myanmar border.The banned ULFA-I, led by Paresh Barua, has remained opposed to the peace process involving the pro-talks faction of the United Liberation Front of Asom. The outfit has continued to operate from bases in Myanmar, although security forces have intensified operations and surveillance against its activities.The surrender of senior cadres in recent years has been a setback for the organisation, as experienced members play an important role in maintaining communication, recruitment and operational networks.Officials are expected to gather further information from Anoljoy regarding his activities, his association with the organisation and the circumstances that led to his decision to return to Assam. Details regarding his rehabilitation and reintegration into mainstream society are also awaited.The surrender is likely to be closely examined by security agencies, particularly in view of Anoljoy's prolonged stay in Myanmar and his reported links to the organisation's activities there.The development also comes at a time when authorities have been encouraging insurgent cadres to give up arms and return to civilian life through surrender and rehabilitation initiatives.While the circumstances surrounding Anoljoy's decision to surrender have not been fully disclosed, his return could provide security agencies with valuable information about the functioning and network of the banned outfit.Further details regarding his rank, responsibilities within ULFA-I, period of association with the organisation and the rehabilitation measures being offered to him are expected to emerge following interrogation and official assessment.His surrender marks another instance of a member of the banned outfit choosing to abandon the insurgent path and return to the mainstream, dealing a further blow to ULFA-I's organisational strength.

Gorkha Community Celebrates Holy Teej - Haritalika Festival in Hojai

The Assam Rising, Hojai, September 16 : Nepali-speaking Gorkha women across the greater Hojai area celebrated the holy festival of Teej with great joy and enthusiasm. As part of the traditional customs, married daughters were invited back to their maternal homes to mark the occasion.On the second day of the bright fortnight of the Bhadra month (Bhadra Shukla Dwitiya), families observed the traditional 'Dar Khane' ritual. Delicious delicacies were prepared and shared among family members and visiting daughters. The women also gathered with neighbors to sing traditional Teej songs and dance.On the following day, Bhadra Shukla Tritiya, the women took a holy dip in nearby water bodies and rivers, followed by a strict Nirjala (without food or water) fast to pray for the well-being and longevity of their husbands and families. Upholding these long-standing traditions, the Gorkha Women Society of Hojai gathered at the Sri Satyanarayan Temple on Monday to offer prayers and perform rituals dedicated to Lord Shiva and Goddess Parvati. The multi-day festival, which began on Bhadra Shukla Dwitiya, will conclude on Bhadra Shukla Panchami (Rishi Panchami) on tuesday with the performing of the Saptarshi Puja.

Sibamoni Bora to Take on BJP's Devasish Sharma in Nagaon Lok Sabha Bypoll

The Assam Rising, Nagaon, September 16: The Congress has fielded former Batadroba MLA Sibamoni Bora for the upcoming Nagaon Lok Sabha by-election, setting the stage for a high-profile contest against BJP nominee and former IAS officer Devasish Sharma.Bora, a former Block Development Officer (BDO), entered electoral politics in the 2021 Assam Assembly elections and emerged as one of the Congress's prominent winners. Contesting from Batadroba, she defeated the then-sitting BJP MLA and actor-turned-politician Angoorlata Deka by a margin of 32,820 votes.Bora secured 84,278 votes, accounting for nearly 60 per cent of the votes polled in the constituency. Her victory was considered significant as she wrested the seat from the BJP and went on to serve as a member of the 15th Assam Legislative Assembly.A postgraduate, Bora entered politics after a career in government service. Her administrative background, combined with her political family connections, has been an important feature of her public career.Bora is the daughter of Kiran Bora, a former MLA from Batadroba. She is also the daughter-in-law of Golap Borbora, Assam's first non-Congress Chief Minister. Her family's political legacy has given her a strong connection with the Nagaon-Batadraba region.However, the political landscape changed following the delimitation exercise carried out in 2023. The erstwhile Batadroba Assembly constituency was abolished and its areas were incorporated into the newly configured Nagaon-Batadraba Assembly constituency.Bora is now returning to electoral politics on a larger platform, with the Congress hoping that her previous electoral success and familiarity with the region will help the party retain its influence in the constituency. The BJP, meanwhile, has nominated Devasish Sharma, a former IAS officer and former Nagaon deputy commissioner. Sharma took voluntary retirement from the civil service before entering politics and has now been chosen by the ruling party to make his electoral debut from Nagaon.His tenure as Nagaon deputy commissioner has given him considerable familiarity with the constituency and its administrative landscape. The BJP is expected to leverage his bureaucratic experience and local familiarity during the campaign.The contest is consequently shaping up as a battle between two candidates with distinct backgrounds. While Bora brings experience as a former government official and elected legislator, Sharma enters the race after a career in the civil service.The Nagaon Lok Sabha by-election will be held on October 6, with counting scheduled for October 9.The seat fell vacant after Congress MP Pradyut Bordoloi resigned ahead of the 2026 Assam Assembly elections and subsequently joined the BJP. Bordoloi later contested the Dispur Assembly constituency and won the seat. He had earlier won the Nagaon Lok Sabha seat in both 2019 and 2024.Nagaon is one of Assam's 14 Lok Sabha constituencies and covers Morigaon district along with five of the seven Assembly segments in Nagaon district. The bypoll is expected to be closely watched as both the Congress and BJP seek to consolidate their political positions in central Assam.
