

AIIA and 132 ECO Task Force Join Hands for Ashwagandha Plantation and Research in Aravalli Landscape

TSIT

The All India Institute of Ayurveda (AIIA), New Delhi, and 132 Infantry Battalion (Territorial Army) ECO RAJPUT have launched the Ashwagandha Plantation and Research Initiative at the Terriers Herbal Garden, Bhatti Mines, South Delhi. The initiative brings together Ayurveda, medicinal plant research, biodiversity conservation and environmental restoration. The programme was held on September 24, 2026, under the leadership of Prof. (Vaidya) Pradeep Kumar Prajapati, Director, AIIA, and Colonel Mohan Singh, Commanding Officer, 132 Infantry Battalion (Territorial Army) ECO RAJPUT. Under the collaborative initiative, 10,000 Ashwagandha (Withania somnifera (L.) Dunal) saplings will be planted and subjected to scientific monitoring. The initiative combines AIIA's expertise in Ayurveda, medicinal plants and scientific research with the Ecological Battalion's experience in plantation, biodiversity conservation and environmental restoration. The Ashwagandha plants will be regularly monitored, observed and documented to generate information on their growth and adaptation under the local climatic and environmental conditions of the Aravalli landscape. The initiative will also provide an opportunity to link traditional Ayurvedic knowledge on medicinal plants with scientific research. Speaking on the occasion, Prof. (Vaidya) Pradeep Kumar Prajapati, Director, AIIA, said, "This initiative brings together the rich Ayurvedic knowledge of medicinal plants with scientific research and ecological restoration. Ashwagandha is an important medicinal plant of Ayurveda, and its systematic cultivation, conservation and scientific documentation can contribute to both knowledge generation and biodiversity conservation. Such collaborations reflect our commitment to taking Ayurveda beyond clinical practice and strengthening its connection with nature and sustainability." The programme brought together Dr. Meena Deogade, Head, Department of Dravyaguna, AIIA, faculty members Dr. Shivani Ghildiyal, Associate Professor, and Dr. Bidhan Mahajon, Assistant Professor, along with PhD Research Scholars of the Department and officers and personnel of 132 Infantry Battalion (Territorial Army) ECO RAJPUT. The planning and implementation of the plantation initiative between the two organisations was coordinated by Major Jai Singh Shekhawat of 132 Infantry Battalion (Territorial Army) ECO RAJPUT and Major (Dr.) Ashish Kumar of AIIA.

Former Minister Alamgir Alam Conducts Public Outreach in Hastipara, Hears Rural Grievances Alongside SIR Awareness

TSIT

Barharwa: Former Jharkhand minister Alamgir Alam held a public outreach and dialogue programme with residents near Dharampur Bridge in Hastipara panchayat of Barharwa block on Thursday, September 24, 2026. A large number of villagers attended the programme. Local party workers and residents welcomed Alam by presenting him with bouquets, garlands and traditional shawls. During the interaction, Alam spoke directly with villagers, listened to their various grievances and assured them that necessary steps would be taken for their resolution. Residents raised issues related to roads, drains, drinking water, dilapidated electricity wires, transportation and other basic amenities. Alam heard the concerns and sought relevant information on the issues, assuring the villagers that he would raise them with the concerned departments and officials. The former minister also provided information to villagers regarding the Special Intensive Revision (SIR) of the electoral roll. He explained the importance of SIR notices, verification of names in the electoral roll and the documents required during the process. He advised voters who had received SIR notices to follow the instructions mentioned in the notices and appear before the concerned official at the designated time and place with the necessary documents. Villagers were also informed about the need to accurately provide their name, address, date-of-birth details and available documents related to their electoral registration. During the outreach programme, residents whose names or details contained discrepancies or who faced document-related difficulties were given information about the relevant procedures. The villagers were urged not to be misled by rumours or confusion regarding the SIR process and to seek accurate information from their respective Booth Level Officers (BLOs) and the Congress BLA-2. Alamgir Alam said that no eligible voter should face difficulties due to lack of information. He said that alongside providing accurate information about the SIR process, it was also important to listen to local public grievances and take necessary steps for their resolution. Responding to a request from villagers, Alam also inspected the dilapidated road in Agloi panchayat. He assessed the condition of the road, gathered information from local residents and assured them that necessary efforts would be made to address the issue at the earliest. A large number of villagers put forward their grievances and suggestions during the public dialogue.

Heavy Rain, Rising Chandil Dam Water Level Disrupt Life and Agriculture Across Saraikela-Kharsawan

TSIT

Chandil/ Ichagarh: Torrential rain over the past two days and the rising water level of Chandil Dam approaching the danger mark have severely disrupted normal life and agricultural activities across Ichagarh, Chandil and other parts of Saraikela-Kharsawan district. Heavy rain that began on Wednesday continued throughout Thursday, affecting daily life and raising the Chandil Dam water level to 181 RL metres at around 4 pm, according to local reports. The sudden rise in the dam's water level has resulted in waist-deep water entering agricultural fields in dozens of villages in the affected areas. Paddy and other crops, cultivated through months of hard work, are reportedly submerged and at risk of extensive damage. The affected villages include Bandabir, Kendaanda, Adardi, Chowka, Karkidih and Chano Choratkhal in Kukru block; Hutu, Anda, Tilaitand, Kalyanpur, Lava and Seema in Nimdih block; Rasunia, Hatnada, Ruyani, Piyaldih, Borabinda, Keshargaria and Dimudih in Chandil block; and Diyadih, Rugri, Khokro, Maisadha, Garadih, Matkamdi, Lopsodih, Chhota Amra, Hutup, Ichagarh, Patkum and Hurlung in Ichagarh block. Rakesh Ranjan Mahto, president of the Visthapit Adhikar Manch Foundation, expressed concern and anger over the continuing rain and flood-like situation.

Police Personnel Donate Blood in Large Numbers in Pakur, Offering Hope to Patients in Need

Pakur: A special blood donation camp was organised on Thursday at the old Sadar Hospital in Pakur and community health centres across all blocks of the district under the aegis of the district administration, with the aim of ensuring timely availability of blood for patients in need. The campaign, organised under the direction of Superintendent of Police Anudeep Singh, saw enthusiastic participation from police officers and personnel. A total of 22 police officers and personnel donated blood during the camp. The Superintendent of Police also appealed to the people of the district to participate in the blood donation campaign in large numbers. He said blood donation is an important means of saving the life of someone in need. Patients may require blood urgently in cases of accidents, childbirth, serious illness or during surgery. At such critical moments, a blood donation can become a ray of hope for the life of an unknown person. Police officials also appealed to the public to voluntarily donate blood in large numbers during the special blood donation campaign scheduled for September 28 and contribute to this noble cause of humanity.

Women Allegedly Harassed During Karam Puja, Firing Reported After Protest
