Pakistan, Turkiye to send troops to Saudi as attacks escalate

ISLAMABAD

PAKISTAN and Turkiye have agreed to deploy their military forces in Saudi Arabia under a recently concluded pact between the three countries. The decision comes in the wake of attacks by Iran-backed Houthi rebels of Yemen in the Gulf country. The three sides had convened an emergency meeting of the Strategic Political and Defence Committee (SPDC) of the Makkah Alliance for Defence in Riyadh on Monday to address the regional developments and threats facing Saudi Arabia, according to a joint statement.

The defence agreement, signed by Pakistan, Saudi Arabia and Turkiye in August, establishes a framework for collective deterrence and stipulates that an armed attack against any one of them would be regarded as an attack against all.

The SPDC on Monday reviewed the outcomes of the political and military consultations preceding the meeting.

It affirmed that the Makkah agreement embodies a firm commitment to collective defence and a unified position in confronting threats.

"The three countries affirmed that the security of each party is an integral part of the collective security of the three countries," the statement said.

The statement did not give any details or schedule of troop deployment.

It also did not specifically name the Houthis as a threat, but the development comes against the backdrop of Houthi attacks on Saudi Arabia. PTI

WAR WATCH

Yemen's Houthis claim strike on Riyadh airport

SANAA

Yemen's Houthis claimed an attack on the Saudi capital's main airport and on Tuesday denied being pushed back by government forces, who have launched a major operation to recapture lost territory.

The Houthi statements come as Yemen's military said it had removed the pro-Iran group from areas around the Bab al-Mandab strait, a Red Sea chokepoint, and the port city of Mocha.

Claims by both sides in Yemen have been impossible to independently verify, with the situation on the ground moving fast and access for journalists difficult. After a four-year ceasefire, Yemen's long-running conflict has reignited during the wider West Asia war, which has roiled world energy markets and snarled trade routes.

Sources on both sides told AFP on Tuesday that fighting across the country had killed more than 270 government troops and Houthi fighters over the past day. Houthi military spokesman Yahya Saree said the group still held all territory seized last month when they swept through coastal areas along the Red Sea, a vital global shipping route.

Houthi fighters "have full control over all their advances on the ground", he posted on Telegram. Saree said they had carried out dozens of strikes in the past few hours targeting government forces in Yemen's Al-Jawf and Marib regions, while also attacking Taiz governorate. Houthis said on Tuesday a Saudi airstrike killed six family members, including four children, in Hajjah governorate, bordering Saudi Arabia. AFP

Halzen wins Physics Nobel for Antarctic Cosmic Telescope

STOCKHOLM

Belgian-born scientist Francis Halzen won the Nobel Prize in physics on Tuesday for his efforts to demystify a rare group of neutrinos, tiny cosmic particles that researchers believe offer clues to how the universe evolved. "It was a great surprise, and I obviously didn't expect it," Halzen said, speaking to the Nobel Physics Committee by phone from Italy, in a call broadcast at the news conference to announce the winner.

Halzen, a physicist at the University of Wisconsin-Madison in the US, said it was a great pleasure to win the prize and that the research was a massive collaborative effort. The announcement made him feel "strange." "I am working on a proposal, and I hope that this prize will help getting it approved," he said to chuckles from the audience. Neutrinos are tiny cosmic particles with no electric charge and extraordinarily small mass, making them difficult to detect.

Yet they are everywhere: They spew from stars like the sun, and trillions zip through our bodies every second.

Scientists cannot glimpse the mysterious ghost particles zooming around on their own, so they measure what happens when the particles collide with other bits of matter.

Neutrinos bump into other particles only rarely, so scientists build large detectors to improve their odds of catching collisions. Halzen had the idea to turn the vast Antarctic ice into such a detector. AP

Paris march turns unruly as fire tear gas

PARIS

A quarter of a million demonstrators took to the streets across France on Tuesday as unions and teachers joined high school students demanding better learning conditions in protests that later descended into sporadic clashes with security forces. Students have blocked the entrances to hundreds of high schools for 15- to 17-year-olds since late September, complaining of missing teachers, overloaded timetables, dilapidated classrooms and buildings that cannot cope with rising temperatures.

Rights groups, unions and the students have accused authorities of using disproportionate force. A teenager lost a hand on Monday after police fired a stun grenade, while another student reportedly lost several teeth last week after being struck by a police launcher round.
