

SC stays execution of TN man convicted for raping 3 minors

SUCHITRA KALYAN MOHANTY
@ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court has stayed the execution of a POCSO convict from Tamil Nadu sentenced to death for the repeated sexual assault of three minor girls aged between six and eight. The bench of Justices Vikram Nath, Augustine George Masih and Sandeep Mehta passed the order while hearing his plea against the Madras High Court's Madurai bench decision in June, confirming his conviction and capital punishment.

The High Court had agreed with the trial court that the appellant repeatedly subjected the three girls aged 6-8 to aggra-

₹7L each for 3 survivors

A Special Court for POCSO in Tirunelveli had awarded the death penalty to Anandha Sekar (41), a daily wage labourer, in March this year. The judge found him guilty of sexual assault and awarded the death sentence and 10 years of imprisonment. The judge ordered the TN government to pay ₹7 lakh each to the three survivors as compensation ated penetrative sexual assault over a year and deserved no leniency. The SC, however, stayed the execution, stating,

"The execution of the death sentence shall remain stayed pending the hearing and final disposal of the present appeal(s)."

It directed TN to facilitate a mitigation inquiry. This includes probation officers' reports to be filed within 16 weeks, a conduct and work report from the Superintendent of Central Prison, Palayamkottai, and a psychological evaluation by a team constituted by the head of Tirunelveli Medical College Hospital, also within 16 weeks. It permitted mitigation investigator V S Varunavelu of NALSAR's Square Circle Clinic to conduct multiple in-person prison interviews and file a report.

RDOs will now have access to agriculture dept's data

THE state's procurement price for fine variety paddy is around ₹350 to ₹400 higher per quintal than in other southern states, thereby increasing the incentive for malpractice. Currently, the state offers a procurement price of ₹2,750 per quintal for fine varieties and ₹2,600 per quintal for common varieties.

"The RDOs will have access to data from the agriculture department, including area under cultivation in each village, seed supply and other details. At the divisional level, we will now be able to ascertain whether the quantity of paddy arriving at DPCs is proportionate to the area officially recorded as cultivated," said a TNCSC official.

Currently, paddy farmers submit details of their crop cultivation through the e-adangal crop administration portal. After the VAO physically verifies the standing crop, the application is approved. Farmers then submit their land documents, along with their bank passbook, at the DPCs to sell their produce. The payment is credited to their bank accounts within 10 days.

Sources said several traders associated with rice mills in Tamil Nadu and neighbouring states purchase paddy from debt-ridden farmers at around ₹1,800 to ₹2,000 per quintal and subsequently sell it at DPCs at the MSP, making a margin of nearly 30% to 40%.

"In such cases, traders are suspected of obtaining fake e-adangal certificates showing cultivation in the names of farmers, allegedly in collusion with some VAOs," the official added.

During '97-'98 El Nino, TN received 52% excess rainfall

THE committee has proposed three implementation windows: before the 2026 northeast monsoon, before summer 2027 and over the following three to five years. As of August 29, the Nino 3.4 sea-surface temperature anomaly stood at +2.20°C, indicating strong El Nino conditions. The August outlook assigned a 100% probability of El Nino from August-October 2026 through February-April 2027.

The timing is significant as the projected peak overlaps with Tamil Nadu's northeast monsoon, its principal rainy season. However, it noted that historical data do not show a consistent suppression of northeast monsoon rainfall during El Nino years.

An IMD assessment covering 1940-2021 found that northeast monsoon rainfall over the region during El Nino years was excess in 28% of the years, normal in 57% and deficient in only 15%. Another historical analysis found an 11% positive rainfall anomaly over the core southeastern peninsula during El Nino years.

The state's experience also illustrates the variability. During the strong 1997-98 El Nino, Tamil Nadu received 52% excess northeast monsoon rainfall in 1997. According to the IMD, in 2005, the state recorded 79% excess rainfall during October-December, with repeated heavy-rain episodes.

The 2015-16 El Nino produced both extremes, according to the IMD report. Chennai received 1,416.8 mm between November 1 and December 5, 2015, against a normal of 408.4 mm, including 275 mm on December 1, which triggered unprecedented flooding.
