

Parents Protest Alleged Withdrawal of Scholarships at Dibrugarh Coaching Institute, Students Asked to Pay Full Fees

The Assam Rising, Dibrugarh, October 01 : Parents of students enrolled at the Allen Institute in Assam's Dibrugarh have raised objections over the alleged withdrawal or alteration of scholarship benefits that they claim were promised to students during the admission process. The dispute has reportedly surfaced around six months after the academic programme began, with parents alleging that students who secured admission through an entrance examination were initially assured scholarships but are now being asked to pay the full course fees. According to the parents, the scholarship terms communicated at the time of admission formed an important part of their decision to enrol their children at the institute. They have alleged that the terms were subsequently changed after the admission process had been completed. The parents claimed that students and their families were informed about the scholarship benefits during admission and had planned their finances accordingly. The alleged change in the arrangement has now placed additional financial pressure on families, they said. Parents have questioned why the scholarship conditions were allegedly altered several months after students had joined the programme. They have also expressed concern over the uncertainty created for students who are currently pursuing their studies at the institute. The issue has also come to the attention of the Youth Commission, which has taken up the matter and warned that a street protest could be organised if the alleged decision is not withdrawn. Parents have demanded that the coaching institute and the concerned authorities provide a clear explanation of the scholarship policy and clarify the terms under which the students were admitted. They have also sought appropriate steps to address the grievances of students who, according to their claims, enrolled on the understanding that they would receive scholarship benefits based on their entrance examination performance. The parents have further alleged that the demand for full payment was not anticipated at the time of admission and that the development has caused considerable financial difficulties for some families. They have warned of launching protests if the dispute is not resolved and the scholarship benefits are not restored in accordance with what they claim was promised during admission. The controversy has also raised broader questions about transparency in scholarship schemes and the need for educational institutions to clearly communicate fee structures and scholarship conditions to students and parents before admissions are finalised. However, the allegations made by the parents could not be independently verified. The institute's response to the claims was not available at the time of publication. Further developments are expected as the authorities and the institute respond to the grievances raised by the parents and students.

Class 10 Half-Yearly Exams Cancelled in Bijni After Four Question Papers Allegedly Leaked

The Assam Rising, Bijni, October 01 : The half-yearly examinations for Class 10 students in Assam's Chirang district have been cancelled for four subjects following the alleged leakage of question papers from a school in the Bijni area. According to preliminary information, question papers for General Mathematics, General Science, Hindi and Arabic were allegedly leaked from Bhangnamari High School in Bijni. The alleged leak came to light while the ongoing half-yearly examinations were being conducted. Following the development, authorities decided to cancel the examinations for all four subjects. The incident has raised concerns over the security and handling of examination question papers and has also prompted questions about the arrangements made to prevent unauthorised access to examination materials. The Class 10 half-yearly examinations are being conducted across schools, and the alleged leakage has caused disruption for students who had been appearing for the scheduled tests. Students who were preparing for the four subjects will now have to wait for further instructions from the authorities regarding the examinations. Details about whether fresh question papers will be prepared and when the cancelled examinations will be conducted are expected to be announced separately. The circumstances surrounding the wider education community over the confidentiality of examination papers. Maintaining the security of question papers is considered essential to ensure fairness and prevent students from gaining an unfair advantage. Officials are expected to examine the circumstances under which the papers allegedly leaked from Bhangnamari High School and determine whether any lapses occurred in the handling or storage of the examination materials. Further details regarding the source of the alleged leak, the extent to which the papers were circulated and any action against those found responsible are awaited. The cancellation of the four examinations is likely to cause inconvenience to students, particularly those who had already completed their preparation and appeared for the scheduled tests. Authorities are expected to issue further directions to schools and students once the investigation into the alleged question paper leak progresses. For now, the examinations in General Mathematics, General Science, Hindi and Arabic have been cancelled in the wake of the alleged leak, while details of the rescheduled examinations remain awaited.
