He said RIST, established in 2010, decided to introduce the Lifetime Achievement Award from this year to honour experienced scientists who have made significant contributions to science in Manipur and help foster a scientific culture in the state.

The 2026 Lifetime Achievement Award was presented to MU Department of Physics former professor Dr Moirangthem Dhaneshwar, MU Department of Life Sciences former professor Dr Waikhom Vishwanath Singh, and Babina Diagnostics chief consultant pathologist Dr Thangjam Dhabali. RIST is also establishing the Dr Surjalal Sharma Library, for which retired science teachers have been requested to donate books. He said scientists and authors are also contributing their publications and expressed confidence that the library would benefit young people pursuing science.

NE-centric handloom expo planned in Bangladesh

CHRONICLE NEWS SERVICE

IMPHAL: A handloom exhibition will be organised in Bangladesh to promote handloom products of Manipur and the wider northeast region, Manipur Handloom and Handicraft Development Corporation Ltd chairman and Lamlai MLA Kh Ibomcha said.

Ibomcha was speaking during a meeting with representatives of Manipuri Youth Cultural Organisation (MYCO), Bangladesh, at the corporation's Keishampat office.

He said around 15 Meetei villages with a combined population of about 50,000 reside in Bangladesh, where the community produces traditional handloom items, including Wangkhei phee and Rani phee.

However, the chairman noted that weavers there face difficulties in achieving better finishing and aesthetic quality due to limited training in dyeing, colour matching and other post-weaving processes. Efforts would therefore be made to organise a handloom expo in Bangladesh under the Ministry of Textiles and provide training to local weavers, he added.

MYCO secretary Rajib Konthoujam informed that Meetei weavers in Bangladesh produce quality handloom garments that were sought after as gifts for senior Bangladeshi ministers. He said handloom products from Manipur are of better quality but are not easily available in Bangladesh, resulting in strong demand for locally produced Meetei textiles.

The delegation expressed hope that handloom weavers and producers from Manipur would be able to visit Bangladesh and sell their products there, which, they said, would be welcomed by the Meetei community.

MLA urged to address Moreh hospital woes

CHRONICLE NEWS SERVICE

He questioned whether decisions on transfer and posting rested with the government or the doctors, and urged the government to take action against the three doctors who had not reported for duty.

Rajauddin warned that failure to address the issue could lead to strong public protests against the government.

Chipping in Tamil Sangam Moreh vice-president Kamal Kant highlighted paucity of funds for maintenance of the hospital and urged the authorities to address the issue immediately.

The community leaders also raised concerns over prolonged delays in payment of salaries to locally engaged nurses, Grade-IV staff and other workers of the hospital. They said the delayed payments had caused difficulties for employees in meeting household expenses.

The absence of the Drawing and Disbursing Officer (DDO) of the Sub-Divisional Hospital was also highlighted as a serious concern.

The leaders urged the MLA and authorities concerned to intervene in the issues affecting the hospital's functioning and staff welfare.
