The idea was to enhance the livelihood of people in isolated locations and also to give them the basic amenities.

Thanking the NABARD and the Municipal Administration Department for their overwhelming support in executing the project, he said that through Farmers Producers Organisation, ₹27.30 lakh would be spent in establishing the solar system for the tribal village.

He was hopeful that the people in the hamlet would have safety and security during nights and wished their standards of living too improved.

The beneficiaries, who were selling honey, coffee, pepper, cardamom and other produce grown from the habitation said that they were immensely honoured and upbeat to have the facility. There would be 36 solar street lights, LED fittings at dwellings and among others. In another meeting, the Collector said that they were keen to promote roof top solar and net metering in extension areas and at multi-storey apartments in the district.

Loans available

The banks are also willing to provide loans towards the project.

The Tangedco officials led by its Superintending Engineer Natrajan, DRO Rajkumar, Project Director Thushar Srihar Shinde, who were present at a review meeting, presided over by the Collector, said that by installing solar power, the electricity bill to the Tangedco would drop substantially. DVAC Deputy Superintendent of Police (DSP) Ramachandran and his team conducted a surprise raid at Ramanathapuram municipal office.

Following that, they conducted an inspection at the two-wheeler parking lot at the new bus stand, which is operated by the municipality.
