Iran distances itself from Houthi strikes, voices concern, urges talks

TEHRAN

IRAN said on Monday it was "deeply concerned" by escalating attacks between Yemen's Tehran-backed Houthis and Saudi Arabia, after 14 people died in two days of strikes on Riyadh's airport.

"We are deeply concerned about the developments taking place in the Arabian Peninsula," foreign ministry spokesman Esmaeil Baqaei told a weekly press conference, adding that Tehran was ready "to help facilitate dialogue between the parties as the escalation will only benefit the Israeli regime". A Houthi strike on Riyadh's international airport on Sunday killed one person and wounded 11 others, a day after 13 died in the deadliest strike on Saudi soil in more than a decade.

This screen grab taken from CCTV footage shows the moment King Khalid International Airport in Riyadh was hit by a Houthi strike on October 10, 2026 | AFP

"We absolutely do not want hostilities and war to continue between two Islamic countries," Baqaei said, urging the parties to resolve the situation "through dialogue and engagement". The Houthis are part of Iran's "Axis of Resistance", which includes Hezbollah and Iraqi Shiite armed groups opposed to Israel.

Vessel hit in Hormuz

Iran's Revolutionary Guards said they struck a vessel on Monday that was attempting to cross the Strait of Hormuz, a waterway that is crucial to global energy flows. The Guards' navy said in a statement published on the force's news platform, Sepah News, that "a supertanker, was hit in the Strait of Hormuz and caught fire". The ship targeted on Monday had tried to sail through the area "by disabling its transponders" and "by ignoring warnings from the Guards' Navy", the statement said.

UK summons Iran envoy

Meanwhile, Britain's Prime Minister Andy Burnham said Monday that Iran's Revolutionary Guards "almost certainly directed" a major scare at a UK airbase used by the US military for its war in Iran. The Foreign Office confirmed in a statement Monday that Iran's ambassador to the UK had been summoned for talks. AFP

'Doubtful on Russia's nod for energy ceasefire'

KYIV

RUSSIA does not want to accept an "energy ceasefire" in Ukraine announced by Donald Trump, President Volodymyr Zelenskyy said, accusing Moscow of attacking six sites Monday. Zelenskyy earlier promised to respond if Russia refused to agree to the truce, as Moscow indicated it would not adhere to the Trump's calls for a pause in attacks on power infrastructure.

Trump sowed confusion on Sunday with a surprise announcement on his Truth Social network that there was an agreement on both sides to end their punishing long-range strikes on power plants and oil refineries. "It is increasingly evident that Russia is unwilling to accept an energy ceasefire proposed by the United States," Zelenskyy said on social media. "Today alone, the Russians have attacked six energy facilities in Ukraine. Thirty-three people were wounded across the country," he added. AFP

LEBANON SEIZES EXPLOSIVES NEAR SYRIAN BORDER

RIYADH: Saudi Arabia vowed a "serious" response Monday after Houthi attacks on airports killed at least 18 people, including 13 at Riyadh's King Khalid International Airport, and wounded hundreds. Energy Minister Prince Abdulaziz bin Salman said the attacks had tested the kingdom's infrastructure and resilience. "The events of recent weeks are serious, our response must be equally serious," he told an energy conference. Air operations suspended Saudi authorities extended the suspension of operations at Riyadh airport to verify the safety of its facilities. An aviation source told AFP that operations would remain halted until at least Thursday, with damage reported to terminals, radar and communications equipment. Etihad Airways cancelled flights to and from Riyadh until next week, while Bahrain's Gulf Air suspended its Riyadh flights until Saturday. Saudi authorities also suspended transport services to three metro stations serving the airport. Footage showed an explosion tearing through the airport lounge, raining flaming debris on pilgrims.
