the date. In the units found training, biochemical oxygen demand in the effluent went up to 3.11 mg per litre against the permitted limit of 0.96 mg per litre and about 70% of the units had suspended solids above 90 mg. Total suspended solids touched 365 mg per litre whereas the limit is 50 mg per litre, a level that officials said poses a significant health risk.

The Union Chief Minister said nobody had the right to pollute natural water resources at the units must control pollution at the source so that pollution at the units do not reach rivers, canals, ponds etc.

He said the government was monitoring reports to be submitted regularly and said
