

Govt plans to turn Rayalaseema into fruit bowl

Reviewing the proposed horticulture hub, he said development works involving nearly Rs 1 lakh crore would be taken up under a public-private partnership model. Of this, the government would invest Rs 40,000 crore and the private sector Rs 60,000 crore, the release said.

Recalling the severe drought and rainfall deficiency that had affected Rayalaseema in the past, Naidu said several initiatives have now created a more favourable environment for agriculture.

He said water was being brought to the drought-prone region through micro-irrigation, Handri-Neeva and Galeru-Nagari projects, along with the construction of farm ponds and check dams.

The CM said water had been taken through the Handri-Neeva canal for nearly 660 km up to Kuppam.

With industries ranging from Kia to defence projects coming up in the region, Rayalaseema has witnessed industrial transformation, and the horticulture sector should now drive the next phase of economic transformation, he said.

According to the CM, Rayalaseema region was turning its drought into an opportunity and moving from distress towards development.

Naidu directed officials to integrate horticultural crops, Farmer Producer Organisations (FPOs), food-processing industries and marketing systems across 201 clusters in 10 districts.

He called for strengthening FPOs at cluster, constituency, district and state levels and encouraging farmers to form FPOs and collectively market their produce, following a model similar to the cooperation seen among Development of Women and Children in Rural Areas (DWCRA) groups.

Further, the CM also reviewed measures to reduce the impact of El Nino on agriculture and directed officials to prepare an alternative crop plan based on production, consumption and trade opportunities.

It was decided to approach the Centre on cultivation and procurement of crops such as chickpea, black gram, green gram, red gram, ragi, maize, jowar and onion, as well as on Minimum Support Prices, the release said.

The CM directed the Agriculture Department to use AI-based analytical systems to identify crops that would provide maximum benefit to farmers and consumers in different regions, including advanced measures to prevent inflation.

Govt spending on social media campaign criticized

METRO INDIA NEWS | CHILAKALURIPETA

AIYF state organising secretary Sheikh Subhani has criticised the state government for spending public money on social media campaigns despite claiming that there is no funds in the treasury to pay the unemployment allowance promised to lakhs of unemployed youth. He was speaking at a press conference held at the CPI office in Chilakaluripeta town on Friday along with AIYF and community leaders. Subhani recalled the government's election assurance that if voted to power during the elections, every unemployed person would be given an unemployment allowance of Rs 3,000 per month. He alleged that after coming to power, those promises were ignored. The government is making excuses to pay Rs 3,000 per month to the youth who have completed their studies and are facing difficulties due to lack of employment. It is shameful to spend lakhs and crores of rupees on social media influencers, he lamented.

‘SANJEEVANI’ HEALTH PROGRAM ROLL OUT ACROSS STATE FROM JANUARY 1

METRO INDIA NEWS | AMARAVATI

Andhra Pradesh will conduct a statewide trial run of the ‘Sanjeevani’ integrated health-care programme from December 10 and implement it fully from January 1, Health Minister Satya Kumar Yadav said on Friday. Launching 71 health chariots for Anantapur and Sri Sathya Sai districts from Dharmavaram on the occasion of Pandit Deendayal Upadhyay's birth anniversary, the minister said the program was designed to connect health screening with diagnosis, treatment and follow-up care.

The health chariots will provide 41 types of medical tests free of cost, including tests for diabetes, blood parameters, kidney and liver functions. The minister said tests that normally cost between Rs 3,000 and Rs 5,000 would also be covered. Reports would be sent to beneficiaries through phone or WhatsApp within 48 hours. Under Sanjeevani, every individual will have a digital health profile containing medical history, previous test results, blood pressure, blood sugar, blood group, treatment received and medicines being taken. Details of doctors' advice, appointments, medication and follow-up tests will also be linked to the profile.

The system will also link patients with the appropriate healthcare facilities. Coordinators have been arranged at more than 2,000 hospitals across the State, while ASHA workers and ANMs will follow up with people whose tests indicate health concerns. They will guide patients on hospitals, doctors and appointments and monitor treatment and medication after consultations.

The government plans to deploy 933 health chariots across Andhra Pradesh. The vehicles will visit villages, conduct tests and register health information before linking beneficiaries to further medical care.

The minister said Sanjeevani had initially been introduced in Chief Minister N. Chandrababu Naidu's Kuppam constituency before being extended to hospitals and primary health centres in Chittoor and Kurnool districts and later to Giddalur and Ganavaram areas. The program aims to identify diseases at an early stage rather than wait until they become severe, thereby reducing the financial burden of illness on families, the minister said. He said the program was named after the Sanjeevani herb associated with saving lives in the Ramayana. The minister said the health chariots would be integrated with the Sanjeevani platform from January 1 as part of the state-wide rollout.

Kharif paddy procurement from November 1

METRO INDIA NEWS | AMARAVATI

Andhra Pradesh will begin procurement of Kharif paddy from November 1, Civil Supplies Minister Nadendla Manohar said, assuring farmers that comprehensive arrangements were being made for procurement, transportation and milling. Speaking at a workshop organized by the Civil Supplies Department in Vijayawada, Manohar said the government planned to establish 2,619 paddy procurement centers across the State and procure around 37 lakh metric tonnes of paddy during the season.

Around 24,000 personnel would be deployed for the procurement operations, while 31,000 vehicles would be made available to transport paddy from threshing yards to rice mills, he said. The government was also planning to reimburse transportation costs to farmers this season. The minister said the impact of El Niño had resulted in lower estimates of crop yields and, consequently, the expected quantity of paddy available for procurement.

However, he directed officials to ensure that farmers were able to sell their produce on time and were not left with stocks for prolonged periods. The workshop was organized to coordinate the involvement of various departments in the procurement process, including management of procurement centers, transportation, supply of gunny bags, milling capacity and payment procedures.

Minister Manohar stressed the need for advance planning so that payments to farmers were not delayed after their paddy was procured. He called for close coordination among officials and departments to ensure smooth movement of produce from procurement centers to mills. The government's procurement arrangements are aimed at ensuring that farmers have access to designated centers and that the entire chain, from procurement and transportation to milling and payment is completed without unnecessary delays.
