How Kaushal Oza Found His 'Little Thomas'

Ahmedabad, Finding the pulse of a film can often rest on the shoulders of its smallest actors. For director Kaushal Oza and his upcoming 90s Goa-set family feature Little Thomas, bringing his protagonist to life wasn't a matter of hiring seasoned child agency talent—it was a gruelling eight-month journey through classrooms, drama workshops, and over 800 young hopefuls across India. Set to hit theaters on October 23, Little Thomas stars Gulshan Devaiah and Rasika Dugal alongside young breakout lead Hridansh Parekh. But behind the film's innocent, heartwarming exterior lay a deceptively complex casting marathon. Determined to avoid the hyper-rehearsed performance style common in commercials, Oza and his FTII batchmate and casting director Nitin Goel avoided tapping traditional casting coordinators. Instead, they scouted real classrooms—from South Mumbai institutions to the Ryan International school chain—spending 30 minutes with every child simply chatting about life, family, and "fictional nonsense" to gauge their raw imagination and vulnerability.

Jawa Yezdi Rebuilt Confidence Across Every Stage of Ownership

Ahmedabad, A motorcycle brand is built on more than the motorcycle itself. For riders, the real test begins after the keys are handed over and how easily they can access the nearest dealership, how quickly a replacement part can be sourced, how the motorcycle holds up over time and how confidently they can access service when needed. For Jawa Yezdi Motorcycles, these fundamentals have become central to the next chapter of its journey. The return of an iconic motorcycle marque naturally begins with the product. But sustaining that revival requires considerably more. It requires building an ownership ecosystem that can support riders long after the excitement of a new motorcycle wears off. Over the past few years, Jawa Yezdi has increasingly focused on strengthening the foundations of ownership across network reach, parts availability, product quality and service. The most visible change has been the brand's growing physical presence. Jawa Yezdi has been on an accelerating its network expansion, with its footprint moving towards the 500-dealership milestone in 2026 and a roadmap to reach more than 700 touchpoints across India by FY28. The expansion is also extending the brand's presence into emerging markets and bringing it closer to riding communities across the country. (20-4)

Stray cattle harassment continues

Vadodara, A 61-year-old woman, who was going for farm work on the outskirts of Jaspur village in Padra taluka of Vadodara, was seriously injured when a stray cattle suddenly gored her with its horn. The woman, who was injured in this serious accident, was immediately shifted to Gotri General Hospital in Vadodara for treatment, where after a short treatment, she breathed her last on the hospital bed. Following this incident, a wave of mourning has spread in the entire family and the parish and there is a lot of anger and concern being expressed at the local level against the cruelty of stray cattle.

Kokilaben Shanabhai Dhulabhai Padhiyar (aged 61), a native of Navi Nagari, Umraya village and a farm labourer, was on her way to Jaspur village limits on the afternoon of October 10, 2026, to do her daily farm labour. When she passed through the limits of Jaspur village and reached the canal road leading to Hawlio Vago, a stray cow suddenly attacked her. In this sudden attack, the cow gored Kokilaben in the back, seriously injuring her and falling to the ground.

Injured elderly woman rushed to Vadodara Considering the seriousness of the accident, the injured Kokilaben was immediately brought to the Government Gotri General Hospital in Vadodara by her family and local people for treatment. The hospital doctors started her emergency intensive treatment, but since the injuries were very serious, her condition worsened instead of improving. Finally, after two days of treatment in the hospital, Kokilaben passed away forever on the hospital bed. After this tragedy, there is a lot of anger among the local villagers and leaders against the increasing harassment of stray cattle and stray animals. Stray animals frequently cause serious accidents on rural areas as well as highways and farm roads, and many citizens have been victims in the past, but no concrete action is being taken in this direction by the administration. An elderly woman, who supports herself and her family by working as a farm laborer, died in this way in an attack by a stray cow, raising questions about the inaction of the administrative system in the entire area.
