Trump faces new political reality as Democrats vow investigations

Don brushes off losses as Dems say 'lawyer up,' while Jeffries leaves impeachment bid open

WASHINGTON

CORRUPTION topped the list of concerns for voters who ousted Republicans and handed Democrats control of Congress in the midterm elections. Now, the newly empowered Democratic Party is putting the issue front and center as its leaders chart their course for investigations and policymaking.

Senior Democrats in both chambers of Congress have vowed to marshal the subpoena powers and larger investigative staffs that come with their soon-to-be majorities to probe what they say is the self-enrichment that US President Donald Trump and people in his orbit have done at the public's expense. The Republican president and his White House have long denied any wrongdoing.

House Democrats are preparing a vast oversight agenda to look at how Trump and his family have become wealthier since he returned to office — and Democratic leader Hakeem Jeffries of New York, who's in line to become House speaker, has not ruled out trying to impeach Trump for a third time.

Months ago, Jeffries tasked the ranking Democrats on the Oversight and Judiciary committees, Rep. Robert Garcia of California and Rep. Jamie Raskin of Maryland, with leading the effort, as Democrats work to link the costs of public corruption to the affordability concerns hitting Americans' pocketbooks.

"Lawyer up," Garcia posted on X as election results favoring Democrats began coming in on Tuesday night. The Senate is expected to conduct similar investigations."Americans want us to clean up corruption in government," said Sen Chuck Schumer, D-NY, who is poised to return as Senate majority leader next year. "No American should have to make tradeoffs at the supermarket while Trump is making inside trades on the stock market."

Appeals hush money conviction

Meanwhile, Trump's lawyers will try to persuade a New York appeals court on Thursday to throw out his hush money conviction, two years after it made history. The conviction, on 34 felony counts of falsifying business records to obscure a $130,000 payment to adult film performer Stormy Daniels, continues to nettle Trump enough that he denounced it on social media as recently as September.

The president denies any wrongdoing, and he has turned to state and federal courts in hopes of unwinding the verdict. He is not expected to attend Thursday's court session. The appeal centres on legal disputes but carries political overtones. Trump's lawyers argue the case resulted from "immense political pressure" on a Democratic prosecutor, echoing the president's repeated claims. AP

Amish Shah becomes 6th Indian-American in House

WASHINGTON: Indian-American physician Amish Shah has become the first from the community to represent Arizona in Congress after defeating Republican former NFL player Jay Feely in the state's First Congressional District. Shah, 48, won 52.49 per cent of the vote to Feely's 45.45 per cent. Shah is the sixth Indian American elected to the US House.

Republicans turn Hegseth into Iran war scapegoat

WASHINGTON

DONALD Trump may have launched the war that tanked voters' support for the GOP and triggered a midterm shellacking. But Republicans are increasingly pushing Defense Secretary Pete Hegseth to take the fall, with the House potentially voting as soon as next week to impeach him, according to a report by CNN.

Impeachment vote looms

Republican lawmakers and allies argue Hegseth played a key role in convincing Trump to attack Iran without an exit strategy or plan for the political fallout. Rep. Thomas Massie of Kentucky told CNN he plans to trigger an impeachment vote when Congress returns next week, while multiple GOP sources said they expect it to pass.

Hegseth, a vocal supporter of the war, oversold the US' ability to win quickly and easily, Republicans told CNN. They accused him of advocating escalation despite little sign that continued bombing had brought Iran closer to surrender. The conflict has since become a quagmire, entangling the US in the Middle East, worsening the affordability crisis and triggering voters' revolt against the GOP. Vice President JD Vance said on Wednesday that "the reason we lost is the war."

Trump backs Hegseth

Trump, however, has defended Hegseth and denied plans to fire him, saying the defense secretary was "doing a very good job." Trump personally likes Hegseth and has told aides he believes the secretary should fight efforts to impeach him. Some Republicans nevertheless see Hegseth as an obvious target for blame, accusing him of being "dishonest or incorrect" about the war's timelines, goals and objectives.

Hegseth vows to fight

Hegseth remains defiant and is prepared to fight an impeachment effort, according to a person close to him. Pentagon spokesman Sean Parnell said Hegseth remains committed to leading the department.

Tanker struck by projectiles in Persian Gulf near Qatar

DOHA

A tanker was struck by two projectiles off Qatar's coast in the Persian Gulf on Thursday, the British military said, adding that the status of the crew was unconfirmed and the extent of the damage was not known.

The United Kingdom Maritime Trade Operations Center said the attack took place north of Qatar's city of Madinat ash Shamal. It did not identify the tanker and there was no immediate claim of responsibility for the attack. The organization said it was struggling to accurately report the true number of attacks because most ships were refusing to report them.

The Saudi-led coalition fighting Yemen's Houthis said on Thursday that a ballistic missile fired by the group at the Medina region — home to one of Islam's holiest cities — had been intercepted. The announcement came just minutes after the kingdom's civil defence agency warned of potential danger near port Yanbu.

The Houthis rejected any suggestion they were targeting the city, saying such accusations were a "blatant and grave falsehood". AP

Hong Kong activist gets 10 more years in jail

HONG KONG: A Hong Kong court sentenced prominent activist Joshua Wong to 10 more years in prison Thursday under a Beijing-imposed national security law, in a case that critics say underscores the crackdown on the city's once-thriving pro-democracy movement. Judge William Tam said Wong and fellow activist Nathan Law colluded with foreign officials and other foreign actors and sought measures against China and Hong Kong. The US condemned the sentencing.

Joint List gives outside support to Bibi's foe

TAYIBE

A veteran Arab lawmaker in Israel said his bloc is willing to break with decades of precedent and join forces with Jewish-led parties from the outside in a shared bid to end Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu's long rule.

"We want to do things that we did not do in the past in order to remove this criminal government," Ahmad Tibi, a senior member of the Arab Joint List, told The Associated Press. But any such partnership could be politically fraught for both sides. For the Joint List, it would mean backing a government unlikely to end Israel's wars or curb settlement expansion in the occupied West Bank. For Netanyahu's opponents, it would mean aligning with parties that not only criticize Israel's policies, but reject its identity as a Jewish state.

After historic voter turnout delivered Arab-led parties a record share in Israel's parliament, Tibi said the Joint List would support a minority government from the outside, acting as a "blocking bloc," but does not want to help form a government only to see it collapse soon afterward.

"If we support a government from outside, we don't want to give it a safety net only to bring it down a month, two months or three months later," he says. That could reassure Jewish-led factions that view them with suspicion and satisfy their own constituents. It would still give the Joint List major influence. AP
