Iran says it struck tanker transiting Strait of Hormuz via 'illegal route'

Separate report claims fire aboard a ship off UAE coast sparked by unknown projectile

TEHRAN

IRAN'S Revolutionary Guards said on Friday that they had struck a tanker attempting to take an "illegal route" through the Strait of Hormuz, which Tehran has sought to blockade since the outset of the Middle East war. Maritime trackers also reported on Friday that an unknown projectile sparked a fire aboard a ship off the UAE coast, but named a different vessel.

In a statement carried by official media, the Guards said Iranian forces "have taken control of the administration of the strait".

"In carrying out this mission, a few hours ago, a giant LPG carrier named NV Sunshine, owned by NatWit, which was attempting to transit via the illegal route south of the Strait of Hormuz, was struck," the Guards said in the statement.

Iran has attempted to impose its control over the Hormuz over the course of the war, insisting that vessels seek its permission to cross via its preferred routes.

However, ships have increasingly been willing to risk transiting via an alternative route hugging the strait's southern coast.

Britain's UKMTO maritime agency said on Friday that a ship 13 nautical miles (24 kilometres) off the UAE's Al Jazeera Al Hamra, southwest of the strait, was struck by a projectile, which caused a fire on board. "Status of the crew, damage assessment and environmental impact are unknown at present. Authorities are investigating," UKMTO said in a statement. British security firm Vanguard also reported the incident, and identified the vessel as the Panama-flagged crude tanker GEM NO.2. The incident comes days after a tanker was hit off Qatar, around 500 kilometres west of the vital strait.

Ships in the Gulf and those attempting to transit the strait — the only maritime route in or out of the oil-rich region — have come under repeated attack since the US and Israel sparked the Middle East war in late February. Iran has blockaded the strait ever since, though some vessels do manage to cross, and US media has reported on American military efforts to protect ships on the southern route. AFP

WAR WATCH

Pilot among 3 killed in airport attack

Saudi Arabia said on Friday that three people including a pilot were killed in attacks on Riyadh's international airport the day before, after Yemen's Houthis claimed a series of attacks targeting the facility

The Saudi civil aviation authority said two attacks on Thursday on the Saudi capital's airport and a Saudia airlines plane there "resulted in the martyrdom of three citizens". The national flag carrier confirmed the death of the aircraft's captain, expressing "profound sadness"

Pakistan PM Shehbaz Sharif condemned the attacks targeting Saudi airports, reaffirming Islamabad's "unwavering solidarity" with Riyadh and backing the kingdom's right to defend territory

Yemen forces launch op to retake Bab al-Mandab

SANAA

A Yemeni military source said Friday that government forces backed by Saudi Arabia had launched an operation to recapture the strategic Bab al-Mandab strait.

While a Saudi diplomat said that the Riyadh-backed forces had successfully captured the strait, a military source on the ground speaking before the diplomat's statement contradicted that account, saying fighting was ongoing. The military source within the government confirmed to AFP that government forces had launched a "major operation" in the strait region, supported by Saudi air power.

But the source added that "fighting is fierce and advances are limited". Houthi-affiliated news agency Saba on Friday said an attack by government forces south of the strait had been repelled. The Saudi ambassador to Yemen, Mohammed al-Jaber, later wrote on X that "Bab al-Mandab has been liberated from the last elements of the Houthi terrorist militia", without providing evidence.

The Houthis, who are fighting the Saudi-backed, internationally recognised government, seized the coastline alongside crucial trade route during a lightning offensive last month, extending their control over all of Yemen's Red Sea coast. Yemen forces have been attempting for days to retake coastal territory captured by pro-Iranian fighters. The chokepoint, which sits at the southern tip of the Red Sea, has become vital for Saudi oil exports during the war as Iran blockades the Strait of Hormuz. AFP

NUREMBERG TRIALS INSPIRED PILLAY'S PURSUIT OF JUSTICE

OSLO

WHEN Navi Pillay learnt on Friday that she had won the 2026 Nobel Peace Prize, she was in Courtroom 600 in Nuremberg, Germany, where Nazi leaders were tried after World War II.

The coincidence brought her career full circle. As a student at the University of Natal in apartheid-era South Africa, Pillay came across transcripts of the Nuremberg trials. They captivated her with the idea that individuals could be held accountable for grave crimes through an international system of justice.

"Perhaps it was meant to be that I was in this historic courtroom, 600, where the Nuremberg trials were held, when the announcement was made and I was informed of the award," Pillay, a South African jurist of Indian origin, said after Friday's announcement by Nobel panel.

The 85-year-old jurist dedicated the prize to survivors of international crimes and those working to advance international justice, saying their "compassion and courage continue to ensure that impunity will not be allowed to reign".

"We are living through an era when international law and human rights are under significant political attack," she said, pointing to attacks on the International Criminal Court (ICC) and warning that efforts to weaken international criminal justice risked undoing progress made since the Nuremberg trials. "They risk returning us to a world in which power rather than law determines whose suffering matters," she said. AFP
