Cop suspended for harassing wife of fugitive criminal

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Thoothukudi

A special branch police constable of the Tharuvaikulam police station has been placed under suspension by the district police authorities following an allegation of sexually harassing a woman, who is the wife of a history-sheeter. Thoothukudi SP Shivaprasad suspended constable Prabhu (37) of the intelligence wing pending inquiry. Sources say the cop had visited the house of an absconding crime suspect in Tharuvaikulam on the pretext of monitoring his movements. He entered the suspect's house and allegedly harassed her. He also issued death threats if she revealed the matter to others, sources added. Tharuvaikulam police registered a First Information Report against Prabhu based on a complaint.

Alangulam residents seek renovation of children's park; govt funds awaited

THINAKARAN RAJAMANI @ Tenkasi

RESIDENTS of Alangulam town have demanded the renovation of a poorly maintained children's park. The park, with bushes growing everywhere, has also turned into a hub of anti-social elements at night.

The play equipment, concrete animal structures, and pathway have been damaged due to lack of maintenance.

Speaking to TNIE, M Kavin, a resident, said that despite repeated allocations of funds for maintaining play equipment and carrying out additional works, the authorities had failed to maintain the park.

"As Alangulam, a special grade town panchayat, is the headquarters of a taluk, a block and an assembly constituency, people from far away places visit the town to avail themselves of various services. At least 50,000 people reside in the town and its surrounding areas. However, it is unfortunate that its only children's park has been neglected. More than 15 pieces of play equipment, including swings and seesaws, and concrete animal structures have been damaged. The walking pathway constructed along the compound wall has also been completely damaged," he said.

Over a dozen pieces of equipment, including swings and seesaws and concrete animal structures, at the children's park are in a bad condition | V KARTHIKALAGU

Another resident, S Ramar, said the park had turned into a drinking spot due to the apathy of officials. "Since there is no other park in the town, parents have to take their children to distant places such as Tenkasi or Tirunelveli to access such facilities. With the pathway damaged, elderly people are also forced to risk walking along the Tirunelveli-Tenkasi state highway," he said.

Councillor Subash Chandra Bose said around ₹9 lakh had been spent on maintaining the park during his current term. Another ₹5 lakh had been allocated from the Collector's special fund for a compound wall. "The park was established around 25 years ago, when there was no classification of the land. Now, the land has been classified as a waterbody (ooruni) in the revenue records. Due to this, we find it difficult to obtain further funds. Either the classification of the land should be changed, or an alternative site should be identified for constructing a new park," he said.

Bose represents the ward where the park is located.

Executive Officer of the town panchayat, Edwin Jose, said he had sent a fresh proposal to the government seeking funds for the maintenance of this park.

Zero murders in four dists during fest: Police credit increased vigil

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Thoothukudi

THE four southern districts of the Tirunelveli police range reported nil murders during the Deepavali season due to increased vigil, said Tirunelveli range Deputy Inspector General (DIG) R Thirunavukarasu. In contrast nearly 10 murders were reported statewide on Deepavali alone.

The DIG appreciated the police personnel for their commendable services during the period from November 7 (Saturday) to 9 (Monday), i.e., from the Deepavali eve to a day after the festival which was celebrated on November 8.

Thirunavukarasu told TNI*E* that the four southern districts of Tirunelveli, Thoothukudi, Tenkasi and Kanniyakumari did not report any murders during this period due to strict vigilance.

In a press statement, Thirunavukarasu said that increased vigilance and strict surveillance ensured public harmony.

The police department stepped up precautionary measures three days prior to Deepavali at 867 sensitive villages: these included 160 in Tirunelveli, 165 in Tenkasi, 335 in Thoothukudi and 207 in Kanniyakumari district, the DIG stated.

Police monitored the movements of 2,069 suspects with previous criminal records who were likely to take revenge during festival seasons in these districts.

The exercise led to the arrest of 18 suspects with arrest warrants and 16 suspects who were absconding. Over 4,382 police personnel were involved in the surveillance during the Deepavali season, the DIG added.
