New Zealand conservatives edge ahead, but verdict hangs

Wellington: New Zealand's ruling conservative coalition edged towards a narrow victory in Saturday's closely fought election, but the outcome remained uncertain, with late-counted votes potentially deciding who forms the next government.

With over 95% of votes counted, Prime Minister Christopher Luxon's National Party and allies ACT and NZ First were projected to secure 67 seats in a 130-member Parliament, one above the 66-seat majority mark.

Christopher Luxon and Chris Hipkins (R)

The opposition Labour Party, led by Chris Hipkins, and its leftwing allies were projected to win 56 seats. Neither major party secured 30 per cent of the vote, reflecting growing support for smaller parties. "Tonight, New Zealand has spoken," Hipkins told supporters, declining to concede. "It may take us a little bit longer to figure out exactly what it is that you've said."

Centrist newcomer Qiulae Wong's Opportunity party appeared poised to enter Parliament with seven seats after crossing the five per cent threshold. Wong has expressed willingness to negotiate with either bloc, though Luxon has ruled out governing with her party. Special votes from overseas and travelling voters, historically favouring the left, could change the balance.

China confirms talks on Xi-Trump-Putin summit

Washington: China has confirmed discussions on a possible meeting between President Xi Jinping, US President Donald Trump and Russian President Vladimir Putin on the sidelines of the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) summit in Shenzhen this month.

Historic three-way meeting may take place in Shenzhen this month, but experts expect little substantive progress

Chinese foreign ministry spokesperson Mao Ning said Beijing was "in communication with relevant parties regarding a meeting between the three heads of state".

Trump is expected to meet Xi for the third time this year as both nations seek to preserve a fragile trade truce expiring in January. However, tensions persist over agricultural purchases, rare earths and critical minerals, with Washington urging Beijing to honour its trade commitments.

Trump has expressed interest in discussing nuclear arms control, while Putin reportedly wants to raise the Ukraine war without Kyiv's participation. Analysts believe conflicting interests could reduce the historic gathering to a photo opportunity. "China wants the image but not the costs," said Sun Yun, director of the China programme at the Stimson Center.

Danny Russel, a former senior State Department official, said Putin stood to gain the most, calling the proposed meeting a potential diplomatic coup for Moscow.

"The spectacle may be historic without producing anything particularly consequential," said Craig Singleton of the Foundation for Defense of Democracies.

Tagore mural defaced in Bangladesh

Dhaka: A mural of Nobel laureate Rabindranath Tagore was defaced with black ink by unidentified persons in Bangladesh's Khulna, sparking outrage. The mural, painted on Khulna Railway Station's boundary wall alongside portraits of prominent cultural figures, was found defaced on Friday morning. Other murals, including those of Kazi Nazrul Islam, Fakir Lalon Shah and former PM Khaleda Zia, remained untouched. Two posters were found nearby, one declaring: "There is no place for Tagore, who was hostile to Muslims and East Bengal, in Titumir's Bengal. There is no place for glorifying India." Khulna Sadar Police Station Officer-in-Charge Lokman Hossain said a probe was on, though identifying those responsible remained difficult. Khulna City Corporation Administrator Nazrul Islam Manju condemned the vandalism, calling it an act of "narrow-mindedness and sick mentality".
