Teacher's body found in Deoria; school manager arrested

GORAKHPUR : The recovery of a 27-year-old teacher's body from bushes near Kanhauli village in Deoria district, and her subsequent identification through a photograph circulated by police in a local WhatsApp group, triggered protests in Gorakhpur on Tuesday.

Her family members blocked the Nai Bazar road under Jhangha police station limits with the body, demanding compensation and strict punishment for those responsible.

Police said school manager Vijay Nishad (38) had been arrested following a complaint by the victim's father, Subhash Chandra Vishwakarma. Police have also seized the car allegedly used to transport and dump the body.

The victim, Rani Vishwakarma belonged to Khurai village in Gorakhpur district. She had been working as a teacher at V.N. Central Academy in Nai Bazar, Brahmpur, for nearly seven years.

Rudrapur SHO Kalyan Singh Sagar said preliminary investigations suggested that an alleged love affair could have been the motive behind the crime. Further investigation is underway.

According to police, Rani left home around 8.30 am on October 31, telling her family she was going to school to collect her salary.

She reportedly left the school around 3 pm but failed to return home.

Her body was later found in bushes near Kanhauli village under Rudrapur police station limits in Deoria district. Villagers told police that a white car had stopped near the bushes around 7 pm on Sunday.

Its occupants allegedly opened the boot, dumped the body and fled. Villagers informed the police later that night. HTC

No bigger goonda than me in country: Rajbhar

LUCKNOW : From warning those trying to intimidate his supporters to describing himself as country's biggest "goonda", Uttar Pradesh cabinet minister Om Prakash Rajbhar made a series of remarks at a public rally in Banda district on Monday. A video of his speech has since gone viral on social media.

Addressing the Jan Adhikar Maharally organised by the Bhagidari Party (P) at Naveen Mandi premises in Baberu, Rajbhar said, "Whether it is Brijesh Singh, Dhananjay Singh or Abhay Singh – all come to me. Who can be a bigger goonda than that? There is no bigger goonda than me in the entire country." He also named Mukhtar Ansari, who died in 2024.

He said he had heard reports of a powerful local figure in Banda but added that "no one remains the biggest forever."

The minister also issued a warning, saying that if anyone tried to intimidate his people, he had the capacity to "gouge their eyes out". Rajbhar, who was the chief guest at the event, also launched a direct attack on the Samajwadi Party, alleging that its workers and local MLAs were pressuring members of the Prajapati community not to attend the rally.

He alleged that previous SP governments had oppressed the Prajapati community and denied them fair political representation and opportunities.

He appealed for support to the Bhagidari Party, founded by Premchand Prajapati, and said efforts were underway to expand it across Uttar Pradesh. Rajbhar emphasised the need to bring Dalits, backward, deprived and exploited sections into the mainstream.
